Captain Pam Jennings. She singled out Cassie Vogt and Nadia Glucksberg for their offensive play throughout the game that kept the Bulldogs on the defense. Both goalies were credited with three saves in the defensive battle.

There are indications that Hopewell's dominance the past few years in the sport may be coming to an end. Coach Debbie Glover Maple's Princeton High freshman field hockey team blanked the HV team, 4-0, for its first win in four years over Hopewell.

Tory Crimmons scored twice and Irene Causling and Jessica Fraker added single goals for the Little Tigers. Goalie Bevin Ashfelter had three saves.

Boys Bow In Soccer. For three periods, it appeared as if the snake-bitten PHS boys soccer team might duplicate the field hockey team's upset. Into the start of the fourth period, PHS led Hopewell — winner of 14 games in 17 starts — 1-0 on a first-period goal by Dave Gibson, whose shot had bounced off the HV sweeper into the net.

Three minutes and 30 seconds into the final period, Hopewell tied the score on a goal by Steve Hennessey and then went ahead on a penalty kick. Then, recalled PHS coach Becky Mackey, "we sort of let down on defense in trying to push the ball up to tie the score again." Hopewell sophomore Doug Perkins took advantage of the lapse and scored to give Hopewell its winning 3-1 margin.

Mackey cited the goaltending of John Lysaker who had 10 saves and who stopped one of two penalty shots. With the loss, PHS fell to 0-14-3.

Girls Edged, 4-3. Princeton High's girls soccer team twice came back from deficits to tie the score at 2-2 and 3-3 but lost its chance for an upset Monday over Hopewell Valley when Bonnie Suydam scored the fourth of her four goals to give the Bulldogs a 4-3 victory — their ninth of the season.

Trailing 2-0, PHS tied the score with two second-period goals by Hillary Jones and Boie Lockwood, two of coach Ed Beacham's talented corps of sophomores. Then, after the visitors went ahead again, PHS tied it at 3 on junior Debbie Marchand's first goal of the season. Suydam countered with her second goal of the third period and the game ended 4-3 when both teams failed to score in the final period.

Tennis Team Wins. PHS salvaged a split in its four contests with Hopewell Monday when the girls tennis team defeated Hopewell Valley, 3-1.

Mia Cahill won the second singles, 6-2, 6-0, and Debbie Fishman won the third singles, 6-1, 6-0. Fishman, who has been playing well, was able to keep the ball in play longer than her opponent, commented PHS coach Bill Humes.

After Gail Ellis dropped the first singles 2-6, 0-6, PHS clinched the match by winning the first doubles where Eleanor Gorman and Debbie Rosenfeld triumphed. In the second doubles, Ariela Rosenblum and Cindy Bailey lost the first set 3-6, and were ahead in the second, 5-4, when the match had to be called because of darkness. It will be played off at a later date, said Humes.

In winning, PHS set up its climactic match with West Windsor on Thursday. To the winner goes the Colonial Valley Conference crown. Both teams are undefeated in league play.

PHS GIRLS ELIMINATED

From Tennis Tournament. "I'm not sure why they are such a tennis power, but they definitely have some very nice players. We were wiped out." There was little more Princeton High tennis coach Bill Humes could say last week, after his Little Tigers were eliminated from the NJSIAA Central Jersey Group 3 state tournament by top-seeded Watchung Hills. The victors won every match for a 5-0 victory.

The closest PHS came was in the number one doubles where Eleanor Gorman and Debbie Rosenfeld lost the first set, 4-6, won the second, 7-5, but then lost the third, 2-6. The second doubles of Cindy Bailey and Ariela Rosenblum went down, 3-6, 0-6.

The Little Tiger singles players were dominated by Watchung which is the defending state champion among all group schools. Irene Usiskin lost the number one singles, 2-6, 0-6, Gail Ellis lost 0-6, 0-6, and Mia Cahill won only one set, losing 1-6, 0-6.

In its only league match last week, PHS overwhelmed newcomer Nottingham, 5-0. The doubles teams of Bailey and Rosenfeld, Lily Choe and Rosenblum and Cahill and lost just once in five games, Debbie Fishman playing the second and third singles all won, 6-0, 6-0, while Ellis, playing first singles won, 6-4, 6-0.

The win left the Little Tigers of their best games to date, unbeaten in the Colonial and with a little luck might Valley Conference league and have pulled this one out. The home team scored first Windsor, which is also undefeated in league play, for cond quarter, but missed the kick for the extra point, and the CVC championship. The match will be played at the PHS courts, starting at 3:30.

PDS TIES PINGRY 6-6

Final Game Friday. A 1-4-2 season's record is not much to cheer about, but the Princeton Day football team had cause for satisfaction last weekend, when it walked off the field with a 6-6 tie with Pingry. The North Jersey school had extra point, leaving the game tied at 6-6.

It ended that way with the Blue and White stopping a final Pingry drive at the 25-yard line with less than a minute to play. Ross led the team in rushing with 63 yards in nine carries, and was in on 14 tackles on defense.

Coach Jim Walker also praised the play of defensive tackles Dave Stifel, and freshman Tim Jacques. Jacques had 12 tackles, six of them solo, and recovered a fumble.

The final game of the season will be played this Friday at goal attempt then sailed wide of the mark.

However in the third period, they keep their mind on the work, the Panthers can win Peter Ross pounced on a Pingry fumble and ran 34 yards for a touchdown. PDS back considering their slow also missed its chance at the start.

Horse for the Force? Chief Hopes To Sell Idea to Borough Council

A horse at Nassau and Witherspoon, Borough police officer sternly astride, kicking away the five o'clock traffic and wondering how long before that bale of hay

"I'd be suspicious of anybody who doesn't see the humor in this," admits Police Commissioner Barbara Hill, "but just because it sounds humorous, why dismiss it?"

"I've always felt this form of policing would provide a safer community," says Police Chief Michael Carnevale.

A horse for the force — or maybe two? — is the chief's idea. This Thursday, Borough Council and audience will watch a 13-minute videotape made by two Borough police in Philadelphia and edited by students at Princeton High School.

The tape was made at Philadelphia's training school for horses and officers. There is also footage of a mounted officer in a part of center-city Philadelphia said to resemble Nassau Street near Palmer Square. "The horse would be used only in the main part of the Central Business District," Ms. Hill explains. "An officer on a horse is a bigger and more noticeable presence than an officer on foot or in a squad car, with better sight-lines. We see it as a crime-deterrent, perhaps on duty from noon to 9.

"At Rutgers, where they use horses, they tell us people feel better about police when they see them on a horse. They come up and talk to you, when otherwise they might not."

Borough Faces Lawsuit over Granting of Air Rights For Construction of Bridge Over Palmer Square East

Only one lawsuit, instead of the expected two, will be filed in connection with Collins' current plans.

Gerald Boswell filed suit against the Borough in Superior Court October 31 over Council's granting of air rights to Collins for construction of a bridge across Palmer Square East connecting the present Nassau Inn with a proposed addition. He does not name Collins in the suit.

R. William Potter, who had said he might go to court with his objections, has instead decided to see if he can influence Gary Green, Collins vice-president. Among other things, Mr. Potter protests what he says is lack of consideration by Collins and the Planning Board of the Mt. Laurel decision requiring municipalities to see that housing is provided for lower-income families.

He said he will meet with Mr. Green and with Collins' counsel, Thomas C. Jamieson, to talk about his concerns.

Both Mr. Boswell and Edwin Schmlerer, Borough attorney, say they want the suit to move as fast as possible. They hope for court action in December.

"It's not my purpose to cause Collins loss of time and money," Mr. Boswell said. "I'm willing to join with the Borough to ask the court to hear this at the earliest possible time."

The Borough will apply to the court for summary judgment, Mr. Schmlerer said, adding that Mr. Boswell might well file a similar request. Both parties agree there is no factual dispute between them, only a dispute in law. In a summary judgment, the court would simply resolve the legal questions.

In its reply, the Borough pointed out to the court that Mr. Boswell had failed to include Nassau Inn, Inc. as "an indispensable party."

"I can't conceive of why I should include them," Mr. Boswell commented. "I'm absolutely baffled as to why the Borough raised the issue."

Collins has a stake in the outcome of the suit, Mr. Schmlerer explained. "If they are left out in the cold when a challenge is filed, it is unfair."

"If Collins is involved," he continued, "they can explain the tremendous amount of planning that went into their plans before

Sigmund Is Elected as Democrats Sweep Borough; Republicans Rally to Take Both Seats in Township

Princeton Borough will have its first woman mayor in its history, and first Democrat in the post in 22 years, when Barbara Sigmund takes office January 1. Mrs. Sigmund defeated Republican Richard Woodbridge by 449 votes — 1,654 to 1,205 — in Tuesday's election.

She took into Borough Hall with her both Democratic Council candidates — Irv Urken and John Huntoon — and Council will therefore keep its 5-1 Democratic majority. Mr. Woodbridge, whose Council term has two more years to run, will remain the lone Republican.

Mr. Urken, who ran ahead of Mrs. Sigmund by 16 votes, was at the top of the ticket with 1,670. Mr. Huntoon had 1,455.

Defeated Republicans were Hank Abernathy with 1,309 and Robert Cook with 1,050.

All the above tallies include absentee ballots.

In the Township, Republican William Cherry won by five votes over Democrat Eleanor Lewis, including the absentee count. The tally: Cherry, 2,080 including 102 absentees; Lewis, 2,075, including 70 absentees.

Winthrop S. Pike was an easy winner with 2,235 and will presumably retain the mayor's position and The Republicans will be in the majority on Township Committee. Democrat Bernard Miller had 1,990 votes. In spite of a mayoralty contest, slightly less than half the Borough's voters bothered to go to the polls — 49.1 percent. In the Township, the percentage was about the same. In that municipality, 48.7 percent voted. There are 5,761 registered voters in the Borough and 8,511 in the Township.

"What size shoes do you wear?" the mayor-elect ask.

they even came to Council for the air rights.

"There is a history going back some three years, involving concept review before the Planning Board, revisions, preliminary approvals, other revisions, final approval. It's important for the court to know the idea of air rights didn't just drop out of the air one day."

He said it was his understanding that Collins would ask the court for permission to be involved.

Refers to Original Deed. In his suit, Mr. Boswell refers to the original 1939 deed in which Edgar Palmer's company, Princeton Municipal Improvement, Inc., transferred Palmer Square East to the Borough provided the property be used as "a street and no other purpose whatsoever."

Through an ordinance passed December, 1939, Mr. Boswell says, the Borough formally accepted the property and dedicated it as a street. As a result, mayor and Council are trustees of the property for the people of the Borough, and violated that trusteeship by not enforcing the language of the deed.

"We agree with him on what is in the deed," Mr. Schmierer replies. "We aren't doing anything to interfere with the street's purpose. People will still be able to walk and drive along it as they do now."

Mr. Boswell says that, at the end of the five-year agreement between Collins and the Borough when the Nassau Inn has been paid, the Nassau Inn will be using public property for private purposes, which was raised at the first stage of the developer might not be around for subsequent stages. Clearly Collins will be around for the next phase."

Not so, Mr. Schmierer contends. "The Borough will always own fee title of that cube of air, and we could technically recover the land if Collins did not adhere to our agreement."

Court cases on sidewalk walk-up windows for banks have upheld this concept, he said.

Feels Referendum Required. Mr. Boswell also repeats, in his suit, his belief that the means of vacating air rights require a referendum. He protests also that the language of the air rights ordinance is such that the public was never aware of what was happening.

He challenges use in the ordinance of the words "bridge"

and "easement."

"It really was the removal of a dedicated street," he says.

In its reply, the Borough asks the court to require that Mr. Boswell pay court expenses and the fees of Borough lawyers. He acknowledges that such a request is common. Mr. Schmierer said "I think it's a shame for taxpayers to have to foot the bill."

Mr. Potter said he will ask Collins to consider setting aside, in its Phase III plans, some housing for moderate-income families; to contribute money toward rehabilitation of Borough housing; or to build such housing elsewhere in the Borough.

He also charges that the Planning Board paid no attention to the solar-energy mandates of the state's land use law, and he questions whether the 4-1 sewage replacement formula is adequate for Collins' plans.

Expense and time were the two factors that made him decide not to sue, Mr. Potter said.

"My key reason for raising the Mt. Laurel issue," he said, "was the Supreme Court's concern that unless the issue was raised at the first stage, the developer might not be around for subsequent stages. Clearly Collins will be around for the next phase."

ABOUT SECURITY

Palmer Square Meeting Held. "It was a very satisfactory meeting, and Borough police were very informative," said Jerry Berner, Collins' director of property management, following Monday's meeting of approximately 25 Palmer Square merchants with Borough police representatives.

The meeting was called following the armed robbery of Polly's Fine Candy Store on October 27.

Police Chief Michael Carnevale, Lt. Thomas Michaud and Commissioner Barbara Hill attended. Chief Carnevale explained police routines — such as squad car activities — to Palmer Square merchants, and told them they could acquire alarm systems with a "panic button" wired in to Borough Hall.

Because the possible need for brighter lights had been raised, two members of the police force are now evaluating the lighting on the Square and are scheduled to report this week.

"The meeting allayed a lot of the concerns of merchants when police explained how fast their response times were," Mr. Berner reported, adding that there may be subsequent meetings with the police, perhaps involving the employees of Square enterprises, as well as shop-owners themselves.

Collins' Plans
Phase III, Collins' plan for the area north of Hurlish, now a parking lot, is scheduled for review this Wednesday at 7:30 by the Environmental Design Review Committee, and the Planning Board has blocked out a series of meetings for its own review, following the EDRC hearings.

If needed, there will be a second EDRC hearing next Tuesday, November 15. The Planning Board will begin its deliberations next Thursday, November 17. Subsequent meetings on the Collins plans will be held November 29 and December 6, 15 and 22.

Township Passes Revision of RA/RB Ordinance Based on Analysis by Professional Planners

Concern expressed over the reliability of soil testing as a means for determining zoning boundaries, and over the qualifications of the soil engineer doing the testing, did not deter Township Committee from adopting an amendment to the RA and RB, four- and three-acre, zones last Monday night.

The vote was 4-0, with Committeewoman Gail Firestone absent. However, the amendment itself will be amended, Mayor Winthrop S. Pike announced before opening the public hearing, because two changes recommended by the Planning Board had not been incorporated. Both had to do with soil criteria and testing.

One change was deemed by Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer to be substantive, and thus would have involved re-introduction of the ordinance. However, Committee decided to proceed and adopt the ordinance as originally introduced, with the understanding that an amendment would be introduced shortly. The proposed change called for the addition of a guide to soil classification and mapping by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service to the list of documents that are to serve in arbitrating disputes over whether land in the Ridge area has been properly assigned.

The other change, not substantive in Mr. Schmierer's opinion, required the addition of a "reliable soils scientist" to the review procedure. Mayor Pike read a lengthy statement that explains Committee's position in making what could be considered a change in the 1980 Master Plan land use element.

Reasons. He noted three reasons for the ordinance. Since the adoption of the original RA/RB zoning ordinance in July of 1980, the Township has been engaged in litigation with regard to those zoning revisions. In the context of the litigation, "further detailed analysis by professional planners retained by the Township" determined that the RA/RB boundaries should be changed.

Based on recommendations from these planners, it was decided that the best way to define the Ridge, where the RA and RB properties are located, is by means of a topographic approach and the use of the "toe of the slope" to define the southern boundary of the Ridge. Boundary lines between RA and RB zones have been changed using the "natural factors" approach used by the consultants, specifically a study of topography, soils and vegetation.

The result, the statement reads, is "to provide for greater consistency and treatment of the two low-density zones than that which was provided for in the approach utilized by the Master Plan wherein roads and property lines were recommended as zoning boundary delineations."

TOPICS Of The Town

The Master Plan of 1980 recommended two low-density zones on the Ridge, zones consisting of three acres and five acres. Township Committee established instead a four-acre (RA) zone where two-acre zones existed, and a three-acre (RB) zone in place of 1.5-acre zoning. The purpose, the statement says, was to create large-lot zoning to preserve environmental and community values, with four-acre zoning being a "less restrictive" way of achieving the objectives of the Master Plan.

Not By Soils Alone. "There is a misconception that all this (zoning amendment) is on the basis of soils," Mayor Pike said, pointing out again that the Ridge physiography, soils and vegetation were the basis of study and recommendation by Wallace, Roberts and Todd, consultants to the Township. Nevertheless, three in the audience took issue with the amendment on the basis of the variability in soils testing.

Peggy McNeill, active at several levels in soil conservation district committees and other environmental organizations, told of discussions with various soil experts who all agreed that there were difficulties in using soils boundaries for zoning purposes. Mrs. McNeill wondered if the change was that much of an improvement and what criteria will be used to describe the person qualified to perform soil investigations.

She urged the recruitment of a full-time professional planner well in advance of the Master Plan review and a review of the natural resources inventory as a first step. Lawrence Norris Kerr, a member with Mrs. McNeill on the Environmental Commission, also recommended a full-time planner for Princeton and said she objected to the amended RA/RB ordinance because the tools used, the Mercer County Soil Conservation maps and the 1964 topographical map made from aerial surveys are not sufficiently accurate to use in such detail.

"In my view this ordinance will not alleviate the problem of the lawsuits," Mrs. Kerr said, "as the real problem was changing the zoning from 2 and 1 1/2 acres to 4 and 3 acres." She also felt that the ordinance could involve more lawsuits and thus be a great expense to the municipality.

Committeeman Richard Schoch noted that the ordinance "was not reached lightly," but rather after endless hours of consideration and discussion. He said it represents "a significant refinement" and is a "commendable modification" of the Master Plan.

Other Business. Housekeeping matters occupied Committee for the rest of the evening, the night before Election. A resolution authorizing stop signs at $50 apiece at six intersections as recommended by the Traffic Safety Committee was adopted, although not without a demurral from Committeewoman Barbara Can-

Police report that three student victims lost $147.35 in cash and items valued at $602.35. Included in the haul were a camera, Walkman radio, typewriter and two calculators. A stereo set valued at $130 was stolen last week some time during reading period from an unlocked room in 1937 Hall on campus. In the Borough, a women's 10-speed Raleigh bicycle was stolen from a rack in front of the Architecture Building on the university campus. Police said it was unoccupied. The victim is a student. There was an unsuccessful attempt to remove a stereo and speakers from a car parked between 1:30 and 8:30 Saturday morning behind the home of its Edwards Place owner. Police report considerable damage to the stereo items in the unsuccessful bid to remove them.

separate but similar incidents, two cars parked in the Borough were damaged when someone poured paint remover over them. The trunk of a 1978 Cadillac of a New Brunswick resident was vandalized while it was parked in the Palmer Square lot off Hulfish Street between 5:30 and 10 Saturday night. The hood and front fenders of a 1983 Oldsmobile owned by a Princeton resident were damaged with remover while it was parked overnight on Spruce Street.

A section of newly poured concrete sidewalk on Palmer Square East sustained an estimated $150 in damage when a group of high school students walked across it.

According to police, the students, estimated at 15 in number and accompanied by a teacher, jumped over a barricade to reach the sidewalk. Police talked with the teacher and the incident is being investigated by the Borough juvenile officer. None of the students was apprehended.

damaged last week when someone apparently struck its trunk with a hard object, leaving three small dents.

JOGGER IS VICTIM

Of Flasher. A Princeton woman in her early 30s was the victim of a flasher who exposed himself as she was jogging last week on Prospect Avenue.

The suspect, commented Chief Michael Carnevale, "fits precisely the description of a similar incident last week in the Township." Police are looking for a white male in his late 20s with dark curly hair and a full beard and moustache. He is described as tall and heavyset.

PLANNERS SAY 'YES'

To Hospital, University. The Medical Center's proposed three-story office building, on Witherspoon and Henry and Princeton University's molecular biology building were both approved last week by the Planning Board.

The hospital will rent office space in the building to members of its medical staff and will use the basement for various hospital departments, possibly including the accounting department, the practical nursing program and the X-ray department.

In a design change, the building will now have its entrance facing the parking garage in the middle of and under an arcade created by setting back the entire first floor.

The molecular biology building is east of Washington Road. If Mercer County should decide to widen Washington to 70 feet, the University will request a waiver so that it will not have to dedicate land for the widening, and the Planning Board agreed to recommend granting such a waiver.

...BUT NO GREEN DYE

In Manholes. The green dye stayed in the sewer lines. In a 90-minute vigil last week, the crew sent out by assistant sanitary engineer Martin Durward discovered no trace of the green dye that had been fed into five manholes in Princeton's sewer system.

The dye-testing was done in an effort to determine the cause of contamination in Harry's Brook. As a result of the dye-test, Borough engineer — and Sewer Operating Committee secretary — George Oleksa believes the contamination may be coming from household sewage flowing into the storm sewer system.

"There may be direct connections from house sewer laterals into the storm sewers," says Mr. Durward. "Ultimately," Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley warned this week, "we may have to put dye down people's toilets. If it doesn't show up, then we know that's where the problem is."

Meanwhile, Princeton's health department has taken samples to make new coliform bacteria counts, but results are not in yet, Mr. Durward said.

JUVENILES CHARGED

In Drinking Incident. Two Township youths have been charged by Township Juvenile Officer Jerry Offredo with consumption and being under the influence of alcoholic beverages.

A third youth has also been implicated, Det. Offredo reported. Two are 13, the other 14 years old.

According to Det. Offredo, the three had in their possession a six-pack of beer, gin, brandy and sherry which was obtained from the homes of the three.

Sgt. David Potts had responded to a 9:15 call last Saturday night and found that one of the youths had passed out on the sidewalk near the intersection of Walnut Lane and Guyot Avenue. A second youth was found wandering about by a passerby and taken to the hospital.

Vandalism Suspects. Seven Borough and Township juveniles, all 14 and 15, are suspects in vandalism to an empty house at 389 Prospect Avenue which is being renovated.

Pt. Robert Nielsen was able to name two at the scene, after a group of youths fled from the home when he arrived shortly after 3 in the afternoon. Det. Offredo, who is continuing the investigation, reports that he has a list of seven names of juveniles who were in the house.

"There are damages to the home," he said. "We're trying to ascertain who was there when the damage was done."

Another Youth Charged. A 15-year-old Township youth has been charged with two acts of criminal mischief on Birch Avenue, following an investigation by Det. Offredo.

The youth is alleged to have shot the rear window of a car parked on Birch with a pellet gun and two days later to have shot the front window of a Birch Avenue home.

ON HOUSE TOUR: Mrs. Anne Martindell, left, former Ambassador to New Zealand, confers outside her Mediterranean-style residence with Mrs. Tobin Levy, center, and Mrs. John Gulick, co-chairman of the Christmas House Tour which is sponsored by The Association of the North Princeton Developmental Center (formerly the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute). The tour, which will include the Martindell house, will be held on Wednesday, December 7, from 10 to 4.

resident of Birch Avenue, had been staying at a home on Birch and had taken a BB gun from the home while the occupants were not home and was firing it in the rear yard.

Police confiscated two BB guns from the home. The youth was later released after being charged, pending further action by a Mercer County Juvenile Court.

Trespassers. The continuing problems of youths trespassing in the vacant Russell Estate building on Edgerstoupe Road surfaced again last week.

Last week, a 17-year-old male and a 16-year-old female from New Brunswick and a 16-year-old female from Manville were apprehended in the heavily posted building. Police were notified by Ptl. James Vandermark, a caretaker, who lives on the estate.

Chief Anthony Pinelli observed that for years the home has been an attraction to local students. "Now word has gotten around among high school age kids that this is a haunted house and it is a continuing problem with trespassers."

The three suspects were turned over to Det. Offredo for processing.

HOUSE TOUR PLANNED Drumthwacket Included. The annual Christmas House Tour for the benefit of the Association of the North Princeton Developmental Center (formerly New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute) will be held Wednesday, December 7, from 10 to 4.

Six Princeton area houses, including Drumthwacket, the official residence of the governor of New Jersey, will be featured. Mrs. Thomas H. Kean, wife of the governor, is honorary chairman. Proceeds will benefit the residents of N.P.D.C.

Christmas shops will be open on December 7 and 8 from 10 until 4 at the Mason Foundation building (formerly Miss Mason's School), 53 Bayard Lane.

At Drumthwacket, a Greek Revival mansion built in 1882 by Governor Charles Olden, the dining room will be set for Christmas with the State china. The glass porch will hold a display of doll houses.

Another house on the tour is the home of Mrs. William C. Godsey, a large clapboard colonial style home where a Christmas tree will be decorated with antique ornaments. Still another is the Italian-style home of Mrs. Anne Martindell, which features a walled, statuary-filled garden and a cathedral ceiling patterned after the Sistine Chapel.

The three center rooms of the Basil Stetson House date from the 18th century. The traditional development home of Mr. and Mrs. Hap Young has been turned into an "antique" country house through imagination, creative needlework and hand labor. A small barn attached to the house has been turned into a family room with fieldstone surrounding the wood stove.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Medina features 19th-century carriages in the carriage house, antiques mixed with contemporary pieces, and a log cabin guest house with a cathedral ceiling in the living room. Included for sale in the Christmas shops at the Mason Foundation will be cooking ware, gourmet gadgets, holiday neckties and necklaces, hand-crafted accessories, jams and jellies, handwoven baskets, paper gifts and cards, children's toys, clothing, dips and dressings, folk art and other gifts.

Luncheon will be served at the Mason Foundation building from 11:30 until 2 at $5 per person.

The Association of the N.P.D.C. is comprised of volunteers who raise money through dues and benefits to supplement the basic facilities provided for the more than 500 mentally retarded persons who are housed at this state facility. Funds raised in the past have provided a swim-

Tickets for the House Tour may be purchased by mailing a $15 check, made out to the Association of the North Princeton Developmental Center, to Mrs. A.B. Vincent Jr., 1 Bayard Lane, telephone 924-6644. Enclose a large, self-addressed stamped envelope. Tickets may also be purchased at the houses on the tour and at the Mason Foundation.

Swim Session for Disabled
The Princeton YWCA Alliance for the Disabled will hold a Swim for Health, an open swim for the disabled and elderly, on Sunday, November 13, and again on November 20. The pool will be open from 1:30 to 2:30, and a lifeguard will be on duty. Admission is $1. This is an opportunity to swim in a relatively uncrowded pool, and for the committee to see if Sunday swims are popular with the disabled and elderly. Those who will need assistance are invited to call Carol at 924-5763 or Kit at 921-2656.

CYCLIST FLIPS OVER
On Rosedale Road, A Boxford, Mass., resident, Paul R. Ammann Jr., 25, sustained injuries when his motorcycle went off Rosedale Road Monday between Elm Road and Fairway Drive and slipped over on its side.

Mr. Ammann told police that when his steering started to wobble, he applied his brakes and attempted to pull slowly onto the shoulder of the road.

He was taken to Princeton Medical Center for treatment of shoulder injuries. There were no police charges.

Driver Faces Charges. A Trenton driver was the recipient of a number of traffic and criminal charges following a two-car collision last week at the intersection of Wiggins and Witherspoon Streets.

Beatrice Bostick, 22, was issued a summons for failing to yield at a flashing red light by Ptl. Michael Taylor when she turned into the path of a car operated by Charles R. Parmelee 4th, of 48 N. Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell. Upon colliding in the middle of the intersection, both cars were severely damaged and had to be towed from the scene.

Ms. Bostick was transported by the Princeton First Aid Squad to the Medical Center after she complained of neck pains. She was also issued traffic summonses for driving with a suspended license, no registration in possession, unregistered vehicle, no insurance and using fictitious license plates.

In addition, during their investigation, police found in Ms. Bostick's possession marijuana and methamphetamine. She was charged with two counts of possession.

OPEN BEER IN CAR
Driver, Passenger Charged. Following a rear-end collision at the intersection of Nassau and Palmer Square Saturday afternoon, a driver and his 17-year-old passenger were charged with alcohol violations.

The driver, Vincent Dicesare, 18, of Trenton, was charged under a recent state driving statute that prohibits carrying open, uncapped alcoholic beverage containers. His passenger, also a resident of Trenton, was charged with illegal consumption of alcoholic beverage by a minor.

Police said there were several uncapped beer bottles in the car.

LOOSE DEER CORRALED
Off Nassau Street. A deer running loose in the central business district was corraled by police last week. They erected barriers to contain the frightened animal in an alley behind 32 Nassau Street.

Two hours after police were able to confine the deer — "if you can imagine a deer running around Nassau Street," commented Chief Michael Carnevale — members of the state Fish and Game agency arrived and used a tranquilizer gun to knock the deer out.

It was later taken to Hunterdon County and set free. Police here believe the deer came from the woods off Elm Road where most of the deer in the Borough area are concentrated.

SHOWER WITH A FRIEND
Or a New Faucet. A demonstration of water-saving shower heads will be given at this Thursday's Borough Council meeting (8, Borough Hall) but with a proper sense of modesty, nobody will say whether it will be just a dry run or a skinny dip.

Council member Robert Mc-

Chesney will explain how use of water-saving devices on, among other plumbing fixtures, shower heads, could save the Borough sewer payments.

In a related matter, Council may introduce an ordinance increasing sewer rent fees. Because the Borough plans to hire three new full-time people next year to monitor the sewers, money is needed.

The governing body will also discuss the possibility of housing on the blacktop of the old John Street basketball court, parking for library users in the Park and Shop lot; changing long-term meters on

"The Wool Family"

The Ultimate Loden

When we first viewed this Classic Loden Coat, we were really quite shocked. A finely tailored original Loden Coat, imported from Austria by Salko of Salzburg, but with slits under the arms? When we learned the coat was originally designed for total comfort and function, as a hunting garment, the slits made sense... Ventilation and freedom of movement. Over today's bulky sweaters, blazers and suits the coat makes even more sense. The ultimate business coat, men's sizes 40-46, women's sizes 4-18. $415.00 which will begin at 10 a.m. with a special joint session of the New Jersey Legislature. Governor Kean will then deliver remarks on the important role New Jersey played in the history of the Treaty of Paris.

STATE PLANS CEREMONY For Treaty Bicentennial. Governor Thomas H. Kean has announced the official New Jersey plans to celebrate the Bicentennial of the Treaty of Paris in Princeton on Thursday, November 17.

Ambassadors Bernard Vernier-Palliez of France, Jan Hendrik Lubbers of the Netherlands, Gabriel Manueco of Spain, and Consul-General Frank Kennedy of Great Britain will offer brief remarks on the representatives of the major signatories of the Treaty of Paris in 1783. The Treaty of Paris concluded the American Revolution and established international recognition for the newly independent country. Princeton was the unofficial capital of the United States at war's end, as the Continental Congress was meeting in Nassau Hall. Word had been received that the Treaty had been signed in Paris.

Soon after, George Washington dispersed his troops from his headquarters in nearby Rocky Hill.

Tours of Nassau Hall will be available to the public at the conclusion of the commemorative ceremonies. Prof. Richard B. Morris of Columbia University will address the gathering on the "Treaty of Paris and American Independence." Morris is the author of "The Peacemakers," about the conclusion of the Revolutionary War. Music for the event will be provided by the Westminster Choir of Princeton, Dr. Gordon Myers of Trenton State College and the 19th Army Band from Fort Dix.

The event is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the New Jersey Department of lin. In the second row are Charmaine Subedar, Stephanie Vahaiolos and Natasha Subedar.

He has also written three books: "The Streets Were Paved with Gold," "Hard Feelings" and "The Underclass."
The lecture is open to the public and free of charge.

FOOD ADDICTIONS TOPIC
Of YWCA Session. "Feelings, Fixations and Food: Strategies for dealing with eating and smoking addictions," will be presented Thursday at 7:30 p.m. by the Adult Department of the YWCA. This program is part of the fall series, "Healing the Inner Ache."
Darlene Prestbo, ACSW, a psychiatric social worker in private practice, will be the group leader. For information and registration, call Liz Adams at the YWCA at 924-5571. This is the final presentation in the "Healing the Inner Ache" series, which has been coordinated and moderated by Ms. Prestbo.

GATHERING PLANNED
In Advance of Nuclear Film. A community gathering called "Supporting Each Other in the Nuclear World" will take place on Friday, November 18, from 5:30 to 9:30 at the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place.
According to Dr. Kathryn Boals, a psychologist and political scientist who is an organizer of the event, the purpose is for the group to explore feelings about the planet and the threat of nuclear war. The local co-sponsors of this event, planned for communities across the nation in conjunction with the showing of the TV film "The Day After," are the YWCA, the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, the Holistic Health Association and the Unitarian Church.
Dr. Boals points out that recognition of the possibility of nuclear holocaust is so painful and frightening that many of us engage in various forms of denial and psychic numbing in order to repress our feelings about the nuclear danger. This in turn creates a sense of isolation and powerlessness, a resistance to facing the facts and a resigned fatalism.

With its purpose as mutual support and sharing of feelings, the gathering will begin with a pot luck supper and then move into a program of guided exercises and sharing in small groups with trained facilitators. There will be separate programs for children ages 7 to 10 and 11 to 13. The evening will also include music, display tables and information on local nuclear-related activities.

EXPERIENCING: It looks like a water ballet, but these third grade youngsters at Riverside School are taking part in an experiential learning exercise entitled Acting Like Yourself led by Sandy Nairn of the YWCA. It was Know Yourself Day, the purpose of which was to help students develop an awareness of how they can make and keep healthy and sound minds and bodies. Volunteers from diverse health and fitness areas such as Tai Chi, jazzercise and nutrition spoke to all the classes.

Topics of the Town

The Princeton Gathering is one of some 100 such events being organized around the country by the Day Before Project, a national group sponsored by churches and other organizations concerned about nuclear issues. Formed in response to ABC television's scheduled showing on Sunday, November 20, of a film about a nuclear strike on Kansas City called "The Day After," the purpose is to remind people that it is not yet "the day after" and to help make the film a stimulus to constructive action.

Other activities planned by the co-sponsors include the designation of the YWCA as an official "Peace Site." The YWCA Artisans Guild is participating in a national project called the Peace Ribbon. When completed in 1985, the Peace Ribbon will be wrapped around the Pentagon to commemorate the anniversary of Hiroshima.

The Supporting Each Other Gathering is planned for the same weekend as the annual educational conference of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament. The Coalition plans to show "The Day After" film as part of its evening program. Registration for the Gathering is available through Liz Adams at the YWCA, 924-5571. The fee is $2 for adults and $1 for children under 14, plus a contribution to the potluck supper. For additional information call Dr. Boals, 924-8922, or Carol Jacobs, 924-9124.

thron. Further information is available from the Watershed offices at 737-3735.

Dogs Attack Cat.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
On Tuesday, October 25, two dogs wandered into our back yard at 167 Harrison Street South, and attacked our 17½-year-old cat, "Mittens." As a result, she was put to sleep on Saturday, October 29. One of the dogs was all white, the other was a Husky. Leash laws are in effect to protect citizens, property and pets. Obviously some people with pets are above city ordinance.

NOTICE
Letters to TOWN TOPICS "Mailbox" should be typed, double-spaced, signed and received for publication no later than Monday. No letter will be printed without a valid signature and address. Letters longer than 500 words—or letters on the same subject—may be edited or omitted entirely, at the discretion of the editor. Letters on subjects not specifically related to the Princeton area may also be rejected.

From Goblins, "Thank You!"
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The ghouls of Princeton now in multi want to thank all those who preserved the peace and provided the punch for a sensational Halloween happening: The Princeton Borough Police, our perpetual security; Rip Pellaton, our stout-junged tomorrow; the Princeton University Band, whose Mickey Mouse had even ghosts smiling under their sheets; Peter Hodges and Mark Freda whose scarlet pumpkins both led the way and pulled up the rear; Inter-Act, who kept us safe without a sound; and McCarter Theatre for providing the Goblin Call prize ticket plucked by lucky Patrick Schmierer; the Nassau Inn and Petie Duncan for touching every sense by lighting the night and pleasing our palettes.

Police Remarks Clarified.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter I have sent to Ms. Beverly Harris, 120 Prospect Avenue.

After receiving your letter of October 29, 1983, I had prepared my response in answer to your questions, and it was ready for mailing until I read your letter to the Editor of Town Topics. I was extremely upset to find that you had not allowed me the courtesy to respond to your letter and I feel that it was very poor judgment on your part to send an article to the newspapers prior to securing the correct facts. When I read the original report in the Town Topics, I felt that the Officers had been misquoted, and this was confirmed when I discussed it with my Officers. I contacted the Town Topics in an effort to determine how this had occurred and I was informed that their reporter had received this information from a person who had attended the meeting. Therefore, it is understandable how the facts came to be misinterpreted.

I wish to assure you that no Officer of this Department, or any other Department that I know of, would tell a person they should become a willing victim, of rape or any other crime. It has been our contention, substantiated by various surveys made on this particular subject, and offered as advice by Detective Jerry Offredo in his remarks at the meeting, that a victim could pretend to be willing, even going so far as making suggestions during the initial confrontation of talking the attacker into going somewhere where they could be more comfortable, thus giving the victim more time to seize an opportunity to break away from the assailant before being physically abused.

The Officers of this Department are extremely sympathetic to rape victims and can readily relate to the traumatic experience the victim has been subjected to. Most of our Officers are married and have families of their own and can appreciate the anguish and despair felt by the victim and her family. I cannot convey enough of our feelings and our concern for the victims and that we use every available method in order to apprehend the person, or persons responsible for this most heinous crime.

In the particular case now under investigation by the Princeton Township Police Department, where the victim is unwilling to discuss the incident with Police Officers, we can understand and sympathize with her reluctance and respect her feelings. We will continue to do everything we possibly can in an attempt to apprehend the individual responsible for this act.

In all cases of rape, we contact the Mercer County Rape Task Force and they have female investigators available to all Police Departments to assist with the investigation and supply the victim with much-needed support. Also, there is a Rape Crisis Program which is connected with the Trenton YWCA and their volunteer staff is available for counseling and assistance both to the victims and their families, and, Princeton Township Police Department does have female staff members present during questioning and investigation of the incident, for the comfort of the victim and family members, if necessary.

Our Officers spend many hours visiting schools and lecturing to groups of residents on crime prevention methods, which includes a segment on what a person can do in an attempt to avoid situations which might arise where they could become a victim of rape. This is a practice of many other Police Departments.

I personally have been a Police Officer for 22 years, and I take exception to the sentence in your letter where you state that uniformed Police Officers gave advice in the 70's that victims of rape "should lie back and enjoy it." I have never heard this statement made by a Police Officer of this Department, or any other Law Enforcement Agency.

I hope that I have answered any questions you might have in connection with the responsible and professional method in which our Officers are trained to respond to the needs of victims of crime, but in particular rape victims, however, if you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

trill. Mrs. Cantrill cited a state energy conservation study and complained that Committee had not been provided with information on accidents at those intersections as she had requested.

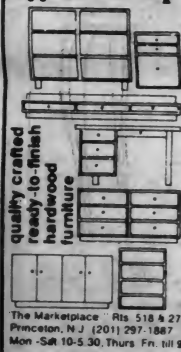

Committee learned to its astonishment that Tenacre Foundation had been subject to a $47,077 sewer overcharge, an error not picked up by either the Elizabethtown Water Company (sewer charges are made by the Township on the basis of water consumption information provided by the Water Company) or by the Township tax office. Mayor Pike proclaimed 1983-1992 the Decade of the Disabled, at the request of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

In its work session, Committee discussed whether the ice safety officer charged with determining when the ice on Lake Carnegie is sufficiently thick for safe skating should remain in the domain of the Recreation Office or be transferred to that of the Police Department. Administrator James Pascale agreed to find the Township's $250 share of the cost of an ice safety officer and suggested that the police chief and the recreation director settle the matter.

Mayor Pike promised to continue to push for greater accessibility from the new Park and Shop parking lot, which many think of as the Library Parking Lot, to the Library, inasmuch as the Township pays two-thirds of the Library budget.

Closed on Friday
The Public Library will be closed all day Friday, November 11, in observance of Veterans Day. The Library will be open for service on Saturday and Sunday.

Mounted police would be particularly useful in the courts, mews and byways between apartments in Collins' proposed Phase III, north of Hulfish, the Commissioner believes. She adds that they could maneuver in parking lots — perhaps in pursuit of a suspect — where squad cars could not.

Certain questions arise. Regarding what the chief calls "that one negative aspect," he has this to say: in other communities, he has been told, "merchants go and get the manure and use it on shrubs and planters." The views of Princeton merchants have not, so far, been solicited. Ms. Hill has a slightly different version.

"I think merchants might sometimes use it; after all, in many communities people are willing to buy it for their gardens." Where would it — they — live? Ms. Hill says a Township resident with a stable has volunteered free room, with board provided by the Borough and served by the resident's stable hand.

How much would it — they — cost? Chief Carnevale declined to discuss cost (or to reveal how

WILL YOU SURVIVE
THE COMING BANKING CRISIS?

New book helps you understand
what's happening,
helps you prepare
your strategy.

16.95

"There is an even broader tragedy... the low esteem to which the situation of the banks has brought capitalism itself."

DR. TIBOR R. MACHAN
PREFACE

Consider Some Key Facts

Fact: For every dollar you deposit, your banker keeps only eight cents reserve. And the FDIC only has $13 billion in assets to insure $1.1 trillion — about one cent for each dollar.

Fact: Foreign loans represent 113% of the $154 billion net worth of all U.S. banks. The figure is 350% for the nine largest U.S. banks. (Banks list outstanding foreign loans as assets.)

Fact: Typical of most Third World debtors, Mexico's foreign debt is 249% of its total exports; Brazil's debt is 342% of exports; Argentina's is 400%.

Premise: Most foreign loans will never be repaid — they cannot be repaid — even with a world economic miracle.

Question: "Why do we export our capital — our industrial lifeblood — to those who despise America and its institutions?"

The Evidence is Undeniable:
Collapse of System or Roaring Inflation

Dennis Turner has written a sober, dispassionate book. If all goes well for the banks, their debt might be rescheduled for eight more years before the system becomes insolvent. The banking system might avoid collapse. But roaring inflation is the only alternative.

When Your Bank Fails is the clearest and most detailed work yet published on the crumbling foundation of the international banking system. The format is accessible, the scholarship first rate. The whole banking system is dissected. It reviews bad loans, those to companies, for commercial real estate, bad agricultural loans.

What Can You Do?

When Your Bank Fails explains the strategy you can use to safely protect yourself from the very real possibility of an international banking calamity. You will learn:

- The early warning signs of collapse. (p. 155)
- Why more banks are failing today than at any time since the Great Depression—and why this is only the beginning. (p. 2)
- Why many Third World countries will default on their debt—and throw the world into financial crisis within days. (p. 76)
- What disastrous actions the government may take. (p. 203)
- How to tell if your bank is safe. (p. 203)
- The 24 safest banks in America (including addresses and phone numbers). (p. 207)
- The best investment you can make to avoid losses when the banks collapse—and two investments that could produce tremendous profits (p. 187)
- How the government may confiscate part of your savings—and what you can do to reduce the risk.
- Why getting out of stocks and into the Swiss Franc could be dead wrong. (p. 193)
- What to do about money funds, bonds, stocks and gold.

SEAT to Meet

many horses he will ask for) but research based on Philadelphia's experience indicates a cost of about $9,000. A general rule of thumb is said to be $5 per day per horse.

Does anybody on the force know how to ride?

"They can learn," was the terse observation of Mayor Robert W. Cawley.

They would do so in Philadelphia's ten-week training program, where an officer always has the same horse, like the Seeing Eye dog training program, Ms. Hill said.

Chief Carnevale sees "a significant decrease in crime" with use of mounted officers.

"Nothing is more reassuring to a shopper than to see a mounted police officer in view," he stated. "Foot patrolmen get lost in a crowd. The greatest advantage of a mounted horse officer is to prevent street crime and control traffic."

"The Borough is a small community, but still a miniature city with the problems of a city. I feel this could be a very effective instrument to deal with city-like problems."

"The visibility of a mounted horse patrol officer may very well be an essential ingredient to help enhance the future growth, development and prosperity of the business community."

Mr. Woodbridge, who was also cheered by the Democrats, joined Mrs. Sigmund on the Art People stage for some post-election banter.

"I was able to sell the Borough a big bargain," Mrs. Sigmund told the crowd, which by this time included a dozen or so Republicans who had drifted over from their own, rather subdued headquarters farther south on Witherspoon.

"The bargain was 'two for the price of one': if you elect Sigmund mayor, Woodbridge will still be on Council," Mrs. Sigmund added. "I am the beneficiary of many, many years of good government in the Borough," and she nodded toward "one of my predecessors, former mayor Henry Patterson," who was among Republicans present.

She said later that one of her first acts as mayor will be to appoint a tax study commission of Borough citizens to lobby the Legislature for laws that would distribute the county property tax in a more equitable manner.

Referring to the municipality as "somewhat in a state of crisis," she said the desire of citizens to maintain "a beautiful town and a mix of age, income and racial groups must be met with a program that integrates our need to direct our growth within, with our need to affect as much as we can, the growth around us."

In the mayoralty race, neither candidate did particularly well in the home district. Mrs. Sigmund edged out Mr. Woodbridge by only 66 votes in her District Three, and he didn't take his own District Two at all. District Two includes the University's Prospect Avenue, Murray Place, Olden Street and most of Princeton Avenue. District Three clusters around the intersection of Harrison and Hamilton and includes Queenston Common.

Mr. Woodbridge took two of the Borough's ten districts — Eight, ranging from Boudinot to Westcott on the west side of Bayard Lane and Nine, including Patton, Markham and Sergeant. He also nosed out his opponent in absentee ballots, which traditionally go to Republican candidates more than to Democrats.

His poorest showing was in District Six, where he received 43 to Mrs. Sigmund's 248. This district embraces "Stanworth," with its University population, and the neighborhood where most of only district where he took a low count was Eight.

Mr. Abernathy, his opponent, scored well in Eight, where he lives, and Mr. Cook ran his best there, also.

The campaign was enlivened toward the end by a mini-confrontation last Friday when an over-zealous Sigmund worker — who apparently lives out of town — decided on her own to storm the open doorway of the Republican store-front on Witherspoon, remove Cook posters and install Sigmund posters.

Alfred Kahn, owner of the premises who supported both Cook and Urken, said he had offered use of the former store to both for window displays. Mr. Cook accepted the offer, Mr. Urken did not.

Mrs. Sigmund later went to Mr. Cook's house with his posters and returned them, with apologies.

In the distribution of Township votes, Mr. Pike ran heaviest in District Nine, from Route 27 south and including Prospect, Riverside and Longview. He was also heavy in Eight, diagonally across the Township in the area between Brookstone Drive and Drakes Corner Road. Mr. Cherry received his strongest support in these districts, also.

Ms. Lewis' best districts were Four, a traditionally Democratic district extending from Mt. Lucas south to Franklin and including Jefferson, and Three, which comprises the University's Butler tract of graduate student houses and faculty homes around McCosh and MacLean Circles.

Voter turnout in District 12, where junior faculty apartments range along Faculty Road, was surprisingly light for all four candidates.

To Ask Recount

Township Democrats are asking for a recount, in light of the five-vote difference between William Cherry and Eleanor Lewis. A machine in District One was apparently not opened properly Tuesday morning by election workers. They called a repairman, and until he arrived, gave paper emergency ballots to the first 11 voters.

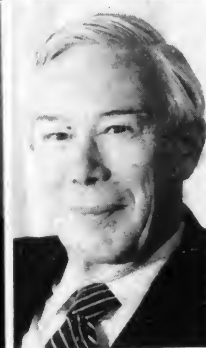

The 12th was former mayor James Floyd who pointed out that the ballot was printed on both sides, with local — Township — candidates on the back side. Poll workers were not aware of this, he reported, and he asked them to tell voters the ballot had to be turned over to find local candidates.

Election workers in District One then gave every candidate 11 votes, in an attempt to rectify the situation. These 11 votes were later voided and are not included in the tallies.

Mr. Tarr discussed the problem on election day with Superior Court Judge Coleman Brennan who suggested a challenge to the count might be the best remedy.

Insurance Assistance, an Independent Bookkeeping Service, Helps Clients Cope with Frustrating Medical Claim Forms

The business world is always in search of a better mousetrap, but now and then an idea for a product or service comes along for which there seems to be such an obvious need that that one wonders why it hasn't been tried before.

This was the response to Insurance Assistance, an independent medical and personal bookkeeping service started by Ann Johnson and Julie Abergier in Hopewell three years ago. Their purpose was to assist individuals, particularly the elderly, who are under strain and have difficulty coping with the voluminous paperwork required in filling out and filing their insurance claim forms.

Somewhat to their surprise, what they envisioned as a one-shot deal, developed, after the immediate crisis was over, into an ongoing relationship with their clients, for whom they now handle personal bookkeeping as well as maintain the continuing medical records.

It is a family business; they are sisters-in-law. Ann Johnson is married to Julie's brother Tom, and they share Tom's light, airy office above a three-car garage behind the Johnson's home on West Broad Street, Hopewell. Tom is a free lance industrial designer, and the long white table in the middle of the room is as key to his business as it is to Insurance Assistance.

They Make House Calls. As Ann describes the process, one or the other of them goes to the home, where, let's say, the wife has been taking care of her chronically ill husband for months, or maybe years. She is distraught and has no emotional energy left over with which to cope with the Medicare, Blue Cross/Blue Shield and Major Medical to which the couple might be entitled.

Typically, Ann says, the wife waves a hand helplessly at the dining room table, which is piled high with paper, everything from laundry lists to a Medicare check for $2,000 she is embarrassed to cash because she received it six months ago. Ann or Julie take down all the pertinent information on worksheets of their own design, pull everything that is medical out of the pile on the dining room table, and scoop it all up to take it away.

Typically, as they leave, the wife will manage a smile for the first time and say, "You're an angel!" The pile — the mess — is then brought back to the long white table in their office and sorting begins. Julie says it is rather like tackling a complicated puzzle, in which one starts with the edge pieces so that a beginning can be made, or in this case putting all related items together.

When they go back to the client, the pile has been telescoped into a single folder of several files documenting claims for this hospital stay, that visit to the doctor. Ann or Julie has prepared insurance claims or letters of correspondence for approval and signature, and they can show what bills are owed in what amounts. They say that their clients are anxious about these bills and eager to be paid up but are often so distraught and overwhelmed they don't know what is owing, or conversely what they have paid twice.

WANT EXTRA INCOME? A temporary or part-time job may be the answer. Read the Help Wanted ads in this issue of TOWN TOPICS for a varied selection of opportunities open to you.

THEY GIVE ASSISTANCE: Ann Johnson, left, and Julie Abergier are the founders and principals of a medical and personal bookkeeping service called Insurance Assistance. Formed to help individuals with insurance claim forms, the business has expanded to include personal and household bookkeeping as well.

An Admirable Group. "The majority of our clients are older people struggling to be independent," Julie says. "They are an admirable group of people."

And it is complicated. Medicare, for instance, has three different application forms, and the response to a filing may come back in three ways. Statements like "This Is Not a Bill," or "Provider was Paid," or "Claim Denied" can be upsetting and confusing to one who has plenty else to worry about.

New Jersey Blue Cross/Blue Shield, for instance, does not forward claims to a second carrier across state lines. A separate form must be filed and that involves a copy of the original bill. But the bill was sent with the first form, and some medical groups are now charging $4 for each copy request.

Insurance Assistance copes, filling out the Blue Cross/Blue Shield form and sending it with a copy of the bill that Medicare covered in part, along with a copy of Medicare's Explanation of Benefits form. And they will repeat that whole process still a third time if the client also has major medical insurance.

Not an Insurance Agent. Sometimes a client will say, "Could you look over my insurance and tell me what I have?" Ann or Julie will review insurance policies and research what is offered. Is there a conversion clause to an employee's major medical policy which allows his grown-up child continued coverage after college? They will call the company and find out, but they are quick to point out that they are not insurance agents.

At the end of the year, clients are given a simple, end-of-the-year accounting which shows how much has been paid to the doctor and the radiologist, how much was reimbursed by insurance and what the tax-deductible balance is.

How did they get into such a specialty? Ann has a background in nursing and served as assistant director of nurses and later assistant director of resident living at New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. "You deal with a lot of paperwork when you work with the state. You get used to being overwhelmed with paper," she says.

But it was the illness of her own father in Florida and two years of traveling back and forth that brought home to her how complicated medical insurance is and what emotional turmoil families are in during an illness.

Julie is a free lance writer and editor, and at one time she worked with an author who was involved in two major automobile accidents. She helped him apply for insurance reimbursement, and in the process they both agreed that if insurance forms are overwhelming to those under 55 they must be impossible for anyone older. "Someone could make a good business doing this," she remarked one day, and he agreed.

Ann and Julie placed an ad in TOWN TOPICS to get started, and when a woman came to them with that original ad, which she had kept for a year, they knew they had a good thing going. Most of their clients are 65 and older, but not all are emotionally distraught by illness. There are widows and divorcees who never learned how to write a check or balance a checkbook.

Expanding. In addition to medical bookkeeping, Insurance Assistance provides personal and household bookkeeping assistance for those who are unable to perform these chores in their daily life. Ann and Julie will pay bills, write checks, keep records. They will sort, file, set up an account record book, instruct the client on how to keep and use a checkbook.

Their fee is $15 an hour, which is tax deductible. In letters they have sent out to trust officers and attorneys describing their service they end with this motto: Red tape is our specialty.

Community Caring is Everyone Sharing

"Everyone?"
Last year, over 37,000 people who lived or worked in the United Way service area were helped by a United Way agency.

"Helped?"
With counseling for individuals and families ... with after-school care of children with working parents ... Big Brother-Big Sister companionship ... drug abuse treatment ... help for the alcoholic ... Meals on Wheels for shut-ins ... home-maker services ... shelter for battered women ... first-aid training ... services for the mentally handicapped ...

"Community" caring?
There are 1,000 campaign volunteers. Throughout the year, 1,500 volunteers help in all operations, including fund-raising, working out how much each agency gets, reviewing requests from various agencies to join the United Way.

"Sharing?"
The goal this year: $1.5 million, a 15 percent increase over last year, and the largest goal in the Way's history. The United Way is especially proud of its volunteers, because:

- their contribution of free time saves the Way thousands of dollars each year.
- they serve on the Way's board of trustees and committees and decide how the Way will be governed.
- they welcome applications from agencies that would like to join the Way, subject each agency to careful examination and then decide whether it belongs to the Way family.
- they go over each agency budget carefully and scrupulously.

Borough Is Assessed as Doing a 'Decent Job' In Relation to Mt. Laurel II Housing Decision

The New Jersey Supreme Court's Mt. Laurel II decision has been likened to the weather: everybody talks about it, but is anybody doing anything about it?

"The Borough has done a pretty decent job already," says the municipality's attorney, Edwin Schmierer.

Council had asked Mr. Schmierer to look at Mt. Laurel then look at the Borough, and report back. He took his findings to Council's most recent work session, and his report was favorable.

In Mt. Laurel II, handed down in January, the Court said yet again that New Jersey municipalities must, somehow, provide housing for people of modest incomes.

In its decision, the Supreme Court turned to the 1980 State Development Guide Plan, which delineated six "areas." The Borough falls into a "growth" area, although Mr. Schmierer says it's important to remember that not much land remains to be developed in the Borough.

"Growth" areas have the responsibility to come up with "affirmative measures" to make the opportunity for lower-income housing realistic," in Mt. Laurel's words.

"In the first place," Mr. Schmierer begins, "the Borough set up the Housing Authority long before it was the accepted thing for a smaller community to have such an Authority or to provide such housing. Franklin and Maple Terrace have been around a long time."

Franklin and Maple have ten units each of low-cost housing. Franklin Terrace was completed in 1938 and Maple in 1948. Both are on Franklin Avenue across from the Medical Center.

There is, in addition, the Authority's Lloyd Terrace housing for the elderly on North Harrison Street.

The Borough applied for and received a Federal Community Development Block Grant of $85,000 to rehabilitate housing in the John-Witherspoon neighborhood and another $85,000 from the state's Department of Community Affairs, also for John-Witherspoon housing rehabilitation.

"Also," Mr. Schmierer continues, "there is the Borough's support for Princeton Community Housing's moderate-income project for the elderly. Council has worked with PCH to get the HUD grant, and has essentially donated the old Borough sewer field land on Elm."

Borough and Township together have a joint Master Plan, dating to 1980, which sets forth a "balanced" housing plan. Mr. Schmierer says the housing element of the Master Plan has been confirmed by planning experts retained to buttress the Township's case in recent zoning litigation.

Counting up all the land parcels remaining for development, what kinds of zoning incentives could be provided to builders to make sure they construct low and moderate-income housing?

Such a study is now under way by consultant Alan Mallach and the Center for Community Development and Preservation, Tarrytown, N.Y., again in connection with Township litigation.

Mr. Schmierer adds that, given the present state of Princeton's sewer system, the community cannot encourage any large-scale lower-income projects.

"The Borough's record, in LONG BEFORE LAUREL: Almost 45 years before the New Jersey Supreme Court's Mt. Laurel II decision of last January, the Borough of Princeton had housing for lower-income families. Maple Terrace, above, was built in 1948 and Franklin Terrace, out of camera range on the left, was built in 1938. Both are on Franklin Avenue.

my opinion, was excellent — very strong — even before Mt. Laurel I and II," is Mr. Schmierer's firm conclusion.

How Much Is Enough? But a question remains: how much is enough, in the eyes of the Court?

How many units of lower-income housing must the Borough — and indeed, the Township — provide in order to pass?

"It's an equation with a number of variables," is the cautious comment of Planning Board attorney Allen Porter, "most of which are unknown." It's a matter of defining terms like "fair share" and "region" and ending up with a number someone has said your fair share ought to be.

So Mr. Schmierer listed for the Borough some things to make its position even stronger.

• Expand the present ordinance that allows a homeowner in the R-1 zone to rent only two rooms for a maximum of four people. Allow such expansion, that is, only if tenants met lower income requirements.

• In the R-1 and R-2 zones, owners may now have "secondary residences" — a small apartment within the house — but the Borough might expand this ordinance also, especially the lot area requirements and the number of rooms allowed, adding "income criteria" for the tenants.

• Where there is joint occupancy of a building — commercial and residential — the Borough might tell the owners they could have a greater floor-area ratio if they provided housing and limited the income of people who lived in the housing.

The Borough has already done this, up to a point. Since 1979, owners have been allowed a floor-area ratio of 1.5; that is, they can cover 1.5 percent of the lot area — if they provide apartments. A revised ordinance might increase that to a 2.5 FAR if the maximum rent were, for example, $600. That sum is regarded as moderate in Princeton.

• Over half the Borough's renters are students without cars, in Mr. Schmierer's estimate. Owners might be allowed to build residential units without having to provide off-street parking if they could demonstrate that a certain number of tenants would not have cars, or if they would rent only to tenants without cars.

In Mr. Schmierer's view, this is not discriminatory because it is in "the public good."

• In the R-3 zone, attached houses or multiple-dwellings might be allowed as a "per-

and Mr. Schmierer points to the comment of Rutgers Professor Jerome Rose, a former member of the Princeton Regional Planning Board, who has said that without such a requirement, not one New Jersey zoning ordinance can pass Mt. Laurel II.

For example, Mr. Schmierer suggests, the Borough might require that 25 percent of the units in all projects of five or more, be for low- or moderate-income families. A similar ordinance works in Orange County, California, he says, and recommends possible study by a Planning Board subcommittee.

What happens when such units are re-sold?

The Court cited a Franklin Township ordinance designed to keep prices and rentals low, and commended Princeton Township for at least considering an ordinance which would have combined covenants and a Public Trust as devices for holding down ballooning resale prices.

Council heard Mr. Schmierer's report, but has not yet decided whether to move ahead with any of his suggestions.

The concomitant distance one feels from the characters and the action is also Brechtian. Remember, he wants no involvement with action or character—the story is useful only to keep momentum going. The message is uber alles.

Intentionally Negative. So, whatever negative reactions are created by the current production, directed brilliantly by Veronica Brady and starring two dozen Princeton undergraduates working their heads off to alienate the audience, it's all probably intentional. Kurt Weill's music is bitter, harsh, and disconnected, hardly the favorite medium for developing post-adolescent voices, but they do surprisingly well with it, lacking that depth.

The entire cast is effectively grotesque. Costumes are exceptional. Setting and scene changes are executed with uncanny precision. In short, the performance is extremely attractive, in a disgusting sense. Brecht succeeds again. And therefore, so must the Triangle production.

Borrowing a page from the Brechtian Gospel, let me conclude by refusing to single out any cast member for special recognition — Brecht would salute the decision, believing as he did in the group's integrity and the individual's surrender to the group — and by saying that I left the theater, not caring for or identifying with any character, neither enraged nor entertained by the performance, but unquestionably "bugged." Brecht got to me. "The Three Penny Opera" is definitely a dramatic repast that sticks in your craw. (Fortunately, you can go next door for ice cream after it's over!)

WHY, IT'S A CLOWN! Fritz, "A Clown for All Reasons," is what Fritz calls himself. Juggler, mime, magician, acrobat, he'll entertain the kids this Saturday at 10 and 1 at the Art People Place, Witherspoon, as the next attraction in McCarter's Crackerjack series.

He lives in Plainfield, when he isn't clowning around, has taught in colleges, been artist-in-residence for various school systems, and has played Japan, Europe, the Middle East and Canada. Besides Plainfield.

IT'S GOSPEL Next Film, "Say Amen, Somebody," a documentary about gospel singing in America, is the next Movie from McCarter, set for next Monday-Wednesday at 7:30 and 9:15 each of the three nights.

The focus is on 77-year-old Mother Smith, a gospel singer for 60 years and her mentor, 83-year-old Thomas Dorsey, credited with inventing gospel as it's known today. The film follows Mother Smith to church services, singing conventions, a store-front church, kitchens and living-rooms with passionate involvement all the way.

WHEN A DOLL IS IN THE WAY ... move her somewhere else. The dolls, strongly resembling dancers from the Princeton Ballet Company, are part of the action in this scene from a former production of "Nutcracker," the Tchaikovsky ballet due at McCarter December 2-11. To mark this 20th anniversary of the Princeton Ballet-McCarter production, there will be new James Wolk sets for all of Act II — and a new Snow scene for Act I.

velous spinnings by Bruce Somerville) are Robert Lancaster, Lawrence Holofcener, Greg Thornton, Keith Curran — and Stephen Schnitzer as the handsome French commander, Dunois, whose military authority Joan usurps, but who befriends and supports her (but in Shaw's story does not romance her as Daniel Boylen flow out of and he does in other versions) until into each other, rich and even he is put off by her un- varied costumes by Elizabeth bending positiveness. Ethan Covey, effective lighting by Hawke is fine and saucy as Richard Moore.

In his Preface to the published "St. Joan" Shaw says — of other writers — "a man always describes himself unconsciously whenever he describes anyone else." Not the least of this play's values is the insight it gives us into the character of an extremely entertaining playwright with a lot more than entertainment on his mind.

—William McCleery
Perfect as Joan's great political enemy, the Earl of Warwick, is David O'Brien: handsome, poised, witty, dedicated, cold; determined for reasons of British security to see — but declining to watch — Joan burn (an event Shaw does not exploit but allows to happen off-stage). Jared Reed is fine as Warwick's even saucier page.

In Joan's trial scene, Jay Doyle is an understated — as Shaw intended — inquisitor. Anthony DeForte is an ex- ploively chauvinistic English chaplain who can't wait to see Joan burn and is driven mad by the sight. Randy Lilly is a likable chaplain who tries hard to save and finally to comfort Joan.

Mr. Kipnis will perform the rarely heard "Concert Champetre" of Poulenc, and will be joined in Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 by David Arben, the associate concertmaster of the Philadelphia Orchestra, and by Jayn Rosenfeld, flautist of the New York New Music Ensemble.

A prolific recording artist, Igor Kipnis has 55 LP's to his credit. He has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, the Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, and National Symphonies, Los Angeles and St. Paul Chamber Orchestras, the Academy of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and the Boston Pops.

David Arben began his early musical education at the Chopin Academy in his native Warsaw, Poland, and continued his studies at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, the Geneva Conservatory, and the Curtis Institute. His numerous solo appearances with orchestras include the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Cleveland Orchestra, the Orchestre de la Suisse Romande, and the Hong Kong Philharmonic.

Jayn Rosenfeld performs regularly with The New York

Camerata, Continuum, the Hunterdon Chamber Players, and the Trenton Symphony, and teaches flute at Princeton University. She was the first flute of the American Symphony Orchestra under Stokowski, and toured South America with the Robert Shaw Chorale and Orchestra.

Portia Sonnenfeld will conduct The Little Orchestra in this gala opening concert, which will begin with the drumrolls of Rossini's Overture to "The Thieving Magpie."

Tickets at $6 (seniors $4, students $2) may be purchased at the Princeton University Store, the Music Cellar at the Princeton Shopping Center, or the Princeton Arts Council at 102 Witherspoon Street (daily from noon to 5). For tickets by mail, make checks payable to The Little Orchestra, and send to 1 Westcott Road, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Telephone reservations will be accepted at 921-2879 or 452-1365.

The New Jersey Committee for the Humanities will co-sponsor a free pre-concert lecture by Mr. Kipnis on Thursday, November 17, at 8 at Princeton University's Rockefeller College, on Nassau Street at University Place. The lecture will treat the subject of Baroque aesthetics and will be illustrated with slides and musical examples.

QUARTET TO PLAY
In University Series. The Concord String Quartet will perform in Princeton University's Chamber Music Series on Monday, November 21, at 8 at McCarter Theatre.

Mark Sokol and Andrew Jennings, violist John Kochanowski and cellist Norman Fischer, is renowned for its performances of Beethoven, Bartok, Schubert and Haydn, and is acclaimed for the world premieres of more than 60 new works.

The Quartet travels widely, performing throughout the United States, Canada, England, France, Germany, Holland and South Africa. It is Quartet-in-Residence at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H.

For its Princeton appearance, the Concord will perform Haydn, Quartet in G, Opus 33, No. 5; Jacob Druckman, String Quartet No. 3 (1961) and Beethoven, Quartet No. 15 in A Minor, Opus 132. Tickets are available at the McCarter Theatre Box Office, 452-5200 from noon until 6. Student "rush" tickets may be purchased on the day of the performance.

MUSICAL INTERLUDE
This Sunday at YWCA. The first "Musical Interludes" concert of the season will be held this Sunday at 2 p.m. at the YWCA. Three Princeton area artists will perform: Curtis Carlson, violin; Dorey Loder, viola; and Joan Thompson, cello.

Both Joan Thompson, who teaches cello in Princeton, and Dorey Loder, who teaches music in the Philadelphia school system, are members of The Trenton Symphony, The Little Orchestra of Princeton, The Princeton Pro Musica Orchestra, and numerous other groups. Curt Carlson, a research scientist in addition to the groups listed above, has played with other chamber music groups in the Princeton area and performed at Woolworth Center and The Institute for Advanced Study.

The concert, which will feature music by Schubert, Haydn, and Beethoven, is free of charge. After the program when refreshments are served there will be an opportunity to meet the performers. For further information, call Liz Adams at the YWCA, 924-5571.

GLEE CLUBS TO JOIN
In Football Concert. The Annual Football Concert, presented each year by the Princeton University Glee Club conducted by Professor Walter Nollner, will be given jointly with the Yale Glee Club in Alexander Hall on the Princeton campus this Friday at 8 p.m.

Marking the 44th consecutive year in which the two minster Choir College groups have joined for the Football Concert, the event students who have gone on to play the usual mixture careers as professional of music ranging from musicians, or to non-musical Renaissance motets to foot-careers, the Westminster ball songs of the two alumni continue to sing in the universities' Westminster tradition.

Tickets for the concert are - The program will begin with on sale by phoning 452-3048 a "Time Mass," in which each movement is drawn from a different era. The Kyrie is a Gregorian Chant, the Gloria is by Johann Pachelbel, the Credo is by Haydn, the Sanctus by Mendelssohn, and the Agnus Dei is by Stravinski.

In recognition of the 150th anniversary of the birth of Brahms, the choir will also perform his Liebeslieder Waltzes, Op. 52, and Psalm 13.

The 28-member choir is in the process of expanding and includes alumni and alumni spouses from throughout New Jersey and from Pennsylvania and New York. Mr. Nair became the conductor of the Alumni Choir early this fall. While at the Choir College, he was the first student appointed to the post of assistant conductor of the Westminster Choir. After graduating from Westminster, he expanded his conducting into the orchestral field, studying with the late Sir Adrian Boult at Tanglewood.

To give his performances greater historical perspective, Mr. Nair specialized in 17th- and 18th-century performance practice while earning his graduate degree in musicology at New York University.

Alice Vuocolo is the accompanist of the Alumni Choir.

RECITAL PLANNED
By Pianist, Pianist Helene Friedlander will give a recital on Sunday, November 20, at 4 in the Westminster Choir College Playhouse. Ms.

Friedlander is a member of the Westminster Conservatory piano faculty and teaches an adult beginner piano course through the Princeton Adult School.

The recital program will include Mozart's Sonata in E, Flat, K. 282, Beethoven's Sonata, Opus 90, and Pieces by Debussy, Manuel de Falla, and American composer, David S. Bates.

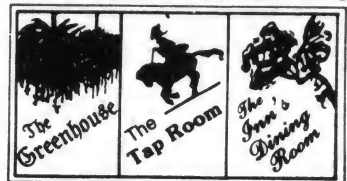

Helene Friedlander has extensive experience as a private teacher and as a performer. She was formerly on the piano faculty of the Trenton State Conservatory of Music and is the accompanist at the Princeton Ballet Society. She studied with Solomon Mikowsky and Ena Bronstein and holds bachelor and master of music degrees from the Manhattan School of Music.

CLARINETIST TO PLAY
With Quartet, Trenton State College Music Department will present the Amado String Quartet, assisted by clarinetist Roger McKinney on Thursday, November 17, at 8 in Bray Recital Hall.

The Amado String Quartet, which began its first year as quartet-in-residence at the college in 1981, has performed extensively in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania and may be heard on Apex and Encore Records. The quartet includes violinist Carol S. Amado, Judith Marlowe, violinist, Evelyn Jacobs, violinist and Deborah Reeder, cello.

Mr. McKinney, principal clarinetist with the Greater Trenton Symphony Orchestra, will perform Brahms Quintet in B Minor, Op. 115. The Quartet will play Capriccio and Fugue by Mendelssohn and Quartet in C Major, Op. 33, No. 3 by Haydn.

Admission is free and the public is invited. For further information call 771-2551.

NEW GALLERY
At Park Lane Furniture.
The Kozlowski family, owners of Park Lane Furniture Company in the Lawrence shopping center, must feel proud after a week-long celebration of the 40th anniversary of their family-owned store. Not only can they claim one of the largest selections in fine furniture available, free design services, and three-year written warranties on items sold, but also a stunning new contemporary gallery which was introduced this year.

Ray Op'tHof, design
coordinator and contemporary furniture buyer, put together this 8,000-square-foot gallery for the store to appeal to those with contemporary taste or for the shopper who enjoys mixing
new styles and period furniture.

In Park Lane's vast store of 50,000 square feet, hundreds of attractive groupings of traditional, Pennsylvania, country colonial, and contemporary furniture are placed in a comfortable room-like atmosphere so that buyers can envision how a certain piece will look in their own home. Little need be left to the imagination because Park Lane sells all kinds of lamps, fabrics, wall
coverings, carpets, art work and accessories for the home
as well.

"No other dealer can offer
the huge selection of better quality furniture or can display as much of it as we can here. Our philosophy is totally customer-oriented; that's why I'm proud to be a part of this place," says Mr. Op'tHof.

THIS HANDSOME CHAIR by Carson's is one of hundreds of fine contemporary pieces now on display at Park Lane Furniture Company in the Lawrence Shopping Center. The store, which opened an 8,000 square foot contemporary gallery this year, has been celebrating its 40th anniversary this week.

who has done model homes at Pine Run in Holland, Pa., at Cedar Glen in Washington's Crossing, and at Rainwood in Voorhees Township.

While the design capability gallery in only a week's time. New lines of handsome contemporary furnishings by Carson's, Dixie "Scoova," Lane, Henredon, Unique, White of Mebane, offer classic, yet
"liveable, affordable, and warm furniture" as seen in the new gallery. Canyon red, mandarin, plum and grey blue walls offset stunning and unusual sofas, chairs, tables and accessories. The designer has achieved a clean, crisp look which is classic enough to look good for many years to come.

Strong Lines. "You will not find the stark Manhattan wall look here. There is little call for it, but we are capable of the strong, crisp, basic lines which are popular today, such as the diagonal, curving and sweeping shapes seen here," says Mr. Op'tHof. In the contemporary gallery shoppers can find affordable pieces of excellent quality in teak, oak, cherry, ash, even peach, which they may want to combine with traditional Colonial furniture, or even antiques. According to Park Lane's designers, the
"eclectic" look is very important in the marketplace
today.

"We don't want someone to come in here and say, 'Oh,
that was the Park Lane look 15 years ago!' which is why we prefer the classic, not trendy lines," he continues. Apartment and condominium
owners will be pleased to view
this new collection, which lends itself well to smaller spaces. The modular systems in wall cabinets and sofas and bedroom furniture makes sense as well, not only because its design is pure, but because new pieces can be added over the years.

Certain new trends have been defined of late in the design field, according to Mr.
Op'tHof. Creative wall treatments include mirrored,
textured, and lacquered walls
and especially the tented fabric effect which looks good in a bedroom or dining room.

FOR FESTIVE FARE
Stop at the Village Bakery.
As two important holidays approach, thoughts turn to festive tables laden with home-baked fruit pies, cakes and breads. A certain sense of expectation fills most homes as preparations are made to welcome dear friends and family who have travelled from afar to be together.
For the host or hostess who enjoys serving and consuming traditional holiday fare, but who simply does not have time to bake, it would be wise to stop in and visit the Stueb-

the time to place large orders because they are incredibly busy during the holidays.

Mr. Robert Stueb-

learned his trade so well, and his wife have been working together in their most successful business since 1964.
The fruition of their hard work and long hours is evident at almost any time of day when the small shop is crowded with students and adults stopping in for a quick snack or to pick up an order. The atmosphere is always calm, pleasant and friendly, qualities which reflect the philosophy of the bakery's owners.

"What we have learned running a small business together is that the great effort we put into our work, with all of the perseverance and creativity
it takes to make it successful, is its own reward," says Mrs.

sons, one of whom is a lawyer
and the other, an engineer,

the shop from an early age

ARTOR CRAFT?
Distinctions Blur. The line marking the division between art and craft continues to blur. Although at one time there was a clear distinction between the two, the changing character of the product and the ability of artists and craftspeople to shift creative gears has altered the thinking of critics and public alike.
There are no longer rigid definitions that circumscribe a specific art or craft. People who cling to more formal distinctions of form and style find themselves lost in a world where painting, sculpture, pottery, weaving and even life itself are often inseparably intertwined. In addition today, many "fine" artists frequently apply their talents to the more practical and physically substantial challenges of weaving, pottery and papermaking, while those involved in crafts create products that resemble completely resolved works of "fine" art.

The array of useful and decorative objects on display at the Full House Gallery reflects the diversity of style and form that is found in today's crafts. Quilts and rugs hang from walls, much like paintings. Conversely, tiny paintings — genuine, if minute, works of art — have been used as jewelry and for other practical functions. Glass, clay, fiber and wood are employed to create objects whose appearance and function combine to demonstrate the many ways in which art can be assimilated into daily life.

The displayed crafts, the work of 50 different people, include such functional objects as tea sets, bowls, baskets, pillows and jewelry. There are also many pieces that are purely decorative: objects designed to enhance their surroundings as do painting and sculpture.
The great majority of exhibited crafts combine function and good design. This is especially clear in Jennie Harrington's pottery. Handworking forms — containers and vases — offer rich textures expressed in simple yet dramatic balances and silhouettes that are varied and eloquent in concept.

Respect for materials and a sense of aesthetic integrity — the result of design concepts that emanate from the character of the medium — are apparent in Harrington's pottery. These qualities are also clear in June Metaxides' works: ornate floral and figurative polyester forms that express the sleek, originally malleable, surface of the space-age substance. Boxes, made of birdseye maple by Michael Elkan, also make you conscious of the intrinsic character of the wood at the same time that there is an awareness of the artist's feelings about the material; a respect for its nature that is clear in the final appearance of the work.
The variety of materials is almost as interesting as the finished designs. The smooth, lovingly finished, wooden and glass surfaces in this collection contrast with rough clay and the softness and flexibility of fiber. The contrasting character of the many materials prevails and gives an extra dimension to this interesting assortment of crafts.

At Squibb, if the current exhibition of employees' photography is any indication, it would seem that everyone at Squibb is running around with camera in hand, shooting pictures wherever they go. More than 100 photographs, taken by people who work as far away as Japan and Australia, offer a world-wide tour of people, places and things. The Concert Royal and N.Y. Baroque Dance Company Combine in a Unique and Entertaining Joint Concert

Imagine an evening of by Kenneth Slowik, had a silvery lustre to its tone, ad-vocal and instrumental music, dance, mime and dramatics. This in-strumented by a slide presen- tation. Now imagine that all these elements, including the images on the slides, date from the mature Baroque. This will give the reader an idea of the incredible variety found in Monday evening's joint performance by the Con- cert Royal and the New York Baroque Dance Company. These two ensembles of young but highly sophisticated per- formers presented this fresh and original mixture of arts at McCarter Theatre in Prince- ton University Center's first Virtuosi in Recital event.

The compositions chosen by the Concert Royal included several of the most important musical forms of the French and Italian Baroque — can- tatas, dance pieces, varia- tions, and a scene from an opera-ballet.

The musicians used period instruments in this perfor- mance which added im- measurably to its character and quality. James Richman, artistic director for the Con- cert Royal, played a harpsichord built by Zeidler and Quagliata of Flemington. The instrument was of French style patterned after one built in 1770 by Taskin. Sandra Miller performed on a wooden transverse flute (so named to distinguish it from the recorder, which is played verti- cally), producing dulcet sounds of exquisite beauty. The viola da gamba, played

(if somewhat vulgar) solilo- quy called "The Harlequin's Despair."

Additional highlights featured Richman in a solo harpsichord transcription of a work by Lully, which served as accompaniment to a serene, masked dance by Ann Jacoby. In terms of perfor- mance creativity, the first work of the program is of particular note. The cantata, "Le Serment Mutuel" by Lancelotti, provided a vehicle for the extraordinary vocal facili- ty of Monoyios and Minter. The sumptuous orna- mentations and delicate vocal tim- bres in this piece were further highlighted by their visual equivalents seen in the slides of art and architecture of the period, which were projected behind the performers.

Unfortunately, this was the last we saw of the slides. Ap- parently the noise created by the projector (situated at the front of the balcony) was con- sidered objectionable by cer- tain members of the audience. While the complaint was understandable, it was equal- ly regrettable. This combina- tion of media was unique, and added an important new dimension to the perfor- mance. There are ways of avoiding the noise factor, among them the use of rear projection. It is hoped that such a solution may be found to the problem so that other audiences might enjoy this in- novative and enriching addi- tion to a superbly performed program.

The Commedia Suite, with music by Lambrozzi, featured the dancers in their most varied roles. Some of these scenes, such as "Pulcinella at Play" and "Scaramuzza and his Cape," resembled mime more than dance. Other scenes recreated what must have been street entertain- ment of the late 17th century, and included a very amusing function as the best kind of photography — pictures that point out the beautiful within the commonplace, images that make it easy to see the frequently overlooked and highly rewarding bits of life that are part of the everyday.

The enormous gallery has been divided into smaller viewing areas for this exhibit. More intimate viewing spaces display the varied photos nicely adding a dimension that makes it easy to absorb the rich collection of imagery.

At McCarter Theatre, once again the Princeton Art Association's Juried Painting and Mixed Media display brings us good news and bad news. The good news, as usual, is that there are several pieces of art hanging in McCarter Theatre that are well worth the trip up the stairs. The bad news, also as usual, is that there are a substantial number of paintings in the display that do no service to the arts in the Princeton community. And, in what seems like the con- tinuation of another un- desirable tradition, the annual artistic mixed bag includes far too many paintings — in fact, too crowded to allow the viewer to enjoy and ap- preciate the really worthwhile art that is included.

This collection is especially uneven. Some works, such as Elizabeth Ruggles' interior with figure, demonstrate an impressive degree of skill, craft and talent combined at a high level. Others — at the low end of the spectrum — include some poorly executed good ideas and an equal number of fairly competent clichés: paintings that create a sense of artistic déjà vu, no matter how well done.

Despite the distractions, many of these are too good to overlook. Juliet Bloom's still life, Study in Brown, Green and White, sets a standard for well painted designed realism. Kudos also go to Marion Robertson Frey whose floral painting, Monday Morning, would look even better if it were not sand- wiched in between other works that compete for the viewer's attention and weaken the effect of delicate color relationships.

Julia Spedding's subtle, carefully balanced ab- straction, Untitled, but looking very much like a landscape, deserves to share the spotlight and even Elizabeth Ruggles' well deserved prize. Spedding, too, demonstrates an impressive amount of technical skill and the special ability to produce a pleasing, painterly work of art.

The Lonely Birds, a con- struction by Gino D. Clechini, deserves a citation for being artistically and materially in a class by itself. The unusual construction, a mix of wood, pottery, print and other materials, is pleasing and provocative in concept.

As usual in juried shows, it is necessary to qualify comment in that it is hard to know the quality of other submitted works and to add that the shows are necessarily a function of the tastes and values of the judge. We must, however, make a plea for a lighter, smaller exhibit where quality is the question. It would perform a service to the community and to the fine art that is always a part of the McCarter displays.

Key Victory over Lafayette Puts Tiger Football Team On Target for Fourth Winning Season in Last Five Years

It took eight weeks to ac- complish the feat, but this year's Princeton football team has finally proved itself superior to the 1982 squad that finished 3-7.

After the Tigers captured three of their first four games in stirring fashion, the com- mon assumption was that they had fully atoned for the short- comings of last year's team. There was talk of a shot at the Ivy title.

Then came three straight losses, to Navy, Harvard and Penn, all exciting contests to be sure, but going into last weekend, the 3-4 mark put the Orange and Black exactly where they were a year ago. And their league record was actually better, 3-2, versus 2-3.

So, it wasn't until the Bengals walked off the field last Saturday with a 41-33 triumph over Lafayette tucked safely away, that they finally demonstrated their superiority on the field. For many reasons, this was the most satisfying victory this season.

The wins against Bucknell, Lafayette is a good Division Brown and Columbia came I-AA team. Now at 5-4, it is not against a trio of losers. The team that coach Bob

Butler, Graham Set More Records; Others Will Fall with 2 Games to Go

For the third consecutive year, passing and receiving records are being set by Princeton, and more are expected to fall in the last two games.

Sophomore Doug Butler, who may have totally rewritten the record book by the time he plays his last game in 1983, wiped out the mark for touchdown passes in a season (16) set by Bob Holly in 1981, and tied by Brent Woods a year ago. Butler's three TD tosses against Lafayette gave him 19. He seems certain to add to it against Yale and Cornell, and is in line to break others as well.

Kevin Guthrie and Derek Graham have both broken the record for touchdown receptions in a season, six, set by Howie Stanley in 1939. Graham has eight and Guthrie, seven. Graham also broke the season pass reception yardage mark of 1,003 set by Guthrie last fall. He has 1,113 with two games to go. Both receivers have 70 receptions to date, and should break the record of 70, again set by Guthrie in 1982.

With his senior year still ahead of him, Graham may own every single game, season and career record for receptions by the time he graduates. And Guthrie, who departs next June, will have had three outstanding seasons, far better than anyone before him, but may not own a single record.

There'll be plenty of lip service paid to the abilities and potential of the two teams, but in neither case is either one better than its record shows. If the Tigers lose either one, it will be an upset of disastrous proportions.

And Speaking of Disaster ... There is nothing to compare Yale's 1983 season with in the Eli record book. At 0-8, this team is simply the worst ever at New Haven.

Consider this quote from Yale's 1983 media guide which sums up 110 years of Eli foot- ball:

"Throughout the decades Yale has won more games (722), scored more points (21,136) produced more All-Americans (115) and placed more men in the football Hall of Fame (26) than any other college in America."

The Bulldogs have had only 13 losing seasons in those 110 years, and never have failed to win at least one game. The only seasons that even begin to match this one came in 1940 and '41 when Yale twice finish- ed with a 1-7 mark.

Yale's problems began before the season did, when in- juries to a couple of key players, including Paul Andrie, the league's leading rusher in 1982, slowed its progress. But basically, despite an optimistic forecast by coach Carm Cozza that said a piece of the league title was not out of the question, the Eli personnel have shown virtual- ly no improvement.

Russo hoped for, but it has vir- tually the same personnel that whipped the Tigers, 47-37, a year ago.

For the first time in memory, the Princeton defense came up with one big play after another to get the Tigers back in the game in the second half, and then protect the lead. This year's defensive secondary is capable of mak- ing the plays that last year's could not.

The defense, Yale's strong point through so many years, was expected to be better than 1982, but still inexperienced, and this has proved to be the case. In short, almost every Squaring Princeton's record at 4-4, this victory paves the way for a return to a winning season, the fourth in the last five years. Only Yale and Cornell stand in the way of a 6-4 finish and a 4-3 league mark. The Elis are winless, the Big Red has won but once.

There'll be plenty of lip service paid to the abilities and potential of the two teams, but in neither case is either one better than its record shows. If the Tigers lose either one, it will be an upset of disastrous proportions.

The Bulldogs have had only 13 losing seasons in those 110 years, and never have failed to win at least one game. The only seasons that even begin to match this one came in 1940 and '41 when Yale twice finish- ed with a 1-7 mark.

Yale's problems began before the season did, when in- juries to a couple of key players, including Paul Andrie, the league's leading rusher in 1982, slowed its progress. But basically, despite an optimistic forecast by coach Carm Cozza that said a piece of the league title was not out of the question, the Eli personnel have shown virtual- ly no improvement.

league team got better this year, while the Elis did not, and they have not even come close to equalling last year's 4-6 mark.

Narrow losses to Brown and Columbia spelled trouble early on, but the devastating 41-7 loss to an 0-6-1 Cornell team last weekend was the crusher. Yale had been favored by a point, but the last minute loss to Dartmouth the week before, may have killed whatever spirit remained.

LEOPARDS EATEN ALIVE

On Pass Coverage. No one had to be an expert analyst to figure out that Princeton's Derek Graham and Kevin Guthrie needed to have a big afternoon for the Tigers to win. As one observer of the sport here put it, "If the Tigers score 40 points, they'll be in the ball game."

Twice the Orange and Black looked to be out of the ball game, but each time, it managed to come back, and it needed almost every one of its 41 points to insure a victory over the visitors. After so-so performances against Penn and Harvard, quarterback Doug Butler rebounded to complete 32 of 53 passes for 469 yards and three touchdowns. He threw just one interception, and called the majority of the plays, himself, just before the snap, without incurring a single delay of game penalty.

Graham and Guthrie befuddled the Leopards' secondary with their pass routes, beating either man-to-man or zone coverage with ease. Graham caught 15 passes for 216 yards and two touchdowns; Guthrie 12 for 185 and one score. Each has now caught 70 on the season.

Perhaps the only surprise was that Princeton's success through the air did not open up the running game more. Ralph Ferraro had 71 yards, but he averaged less than three yards per carry.

The offense-minded Leopards caught many in the crowd of a little more than 10,000 by surprise and many not yet in their seats when they rolled effortlessly through the Tigers defense to score barely two minutes into the game. And for those late in arriving due to the 1 p.m. starting time, they gave a repeat performance the next time they got the ball. Only half of the first period had elapsed and the visitors led, 14-0.

Princeton answered with a field goal, before the quarter ended to make it 14-3, but many wondered at the time if it was the right move, especially when a fumbled pitch-out between Butler and Ferraro early in the second on the Lafayette two-yard line cost the Tigers a chance to score. However, the Leopards returned the favor on their 19 two minutes later, and Butler got Princeton's first touchdown in six plays, hitting Graham in the back of the end zone on a third and 13. After a pass interference call, Princeton ran for the two-point conversion, and narrowed the gap to 14-11.

Later in the period, the Tigers moved ahead, 18-14, when Butler found Guthrie alone in the end zone from nine yards out, completing a 54-yard drive. The momentum had clearly swung to the Bengals, but it took them only seconds to lose it once the second half began.

13 Points for Lafayette. Playing the genial host, Princeton allowed Lafayette to score 13 points in less than four minutes after the intermission. It allowed the Leopards to recover their own kick-off on the 23, when Joe McErlan failed to pick up a ball he thought was going out of bounds.

Two plays later, Lafayette had the lead back, 20-18. It extended that to 27-18, after Butler threw his only interception of the day. Princeton's only offensive threat of the quarter resulted in another Mike Miskovsky field goal, making it 27-21 at the start of the final period.

The Leopards answered that three-pointer with seven of their own, after a good kick-off return gave them excellent field position. Their lead swelled to 33-21, and a repeat of last year's loss seemed likely.

Instead, the Tigers' defense was the deciding factor in the outcome. After Princeton had failed to score upon reaching the visitors' 16, the defense scored the next TD, when end Brian Hetherington tipped a Frank Novak pass into the hands of cornerback Dave Brodess who ran 21 yards for the score.

On Lafayette's next series, Mark Berggren recovered a fumble on Princeton's 37, giving Butler a chance to put Princeton ahead. He needed just five plays to do it, ending with a 13-yard pass to Graham.

After that cornerback Bill Robinson took control, intercepting three of Novak's passes to seal the victory. He ran the first back 25 yards to the three, and Ferraro went over from there for the final score.

Lafayette still had time to achieve at least a tie, but Robinson intercepted two more. His third was necessary, because he fumbled the ball back to the Leopards after the second.

This wide-open brand of football certainly makes for an entertaining afternoon, and it is even more enjoyable when the Tigers prove they have the scoring punch on offense and the ability on defense to come out on top. That's what should make this team finish a winner.

Little Tigers Become a Football Team With 20-6 Victory Over Lawrence, But Now Must Face Mighty Notre Dame

Something good happened to the Princeton High School football team last week: they became a football team.

For five consecutive weeks the Little Tigers had struggled through sub-par performances. Even in the first win against winless, punchless McCorristin a week ago the mistakes continued. Whatever it is that gives life to a team was still missing.

But not last week in the Little Tigers' 20-6 upset of Lawrence High. Primarily on the running of tailback Tom Haggerty, PHS scored 20 points in the first half to overcome an early 6-0 Cardinal lead; in the second half the Blue and White defense rose to the fore, twice stopping Lawrence on downs inside the ten-yard line.

"You saw a football team out here today," said PHS coach Bill Cirullo after the game. "We were pretty good here today." Cirullo could contain himself no longer, a big grin splitting his face.

"God, I love it! Nobody, nobody at all picked us to win."

Cardinals Score Early. First, Haggerty and the rest of the Little Tigers had to wait while Lawrence displayed some fireworks of its own. On the second play from scrimmage, the Cardinals' Gerald Truehart, who was the first leading ground gainer in the County with 588 and 6 TDs, broke free around the PHS defensive end and scampered down the left sideline 58 yards before being pulled down on the four. Three plays later, Truehart banged over from the one and the visitors led 6-0 with less than two minutes to go.

Following an exchange of punts, PHS got back in the to fall apart in the final minutes and lose 15-7. The two own. On a third and 17, PHS will meet under the lights quarterback Freddie Young, Friday night at 7:30 at Notre Dame.

Defense Doesn't Rest. As the final seconds raced down the sideline to the ticked off marking an end to one. On the next play, the Lawrence game, Cirullo Haggerty bucked over. Then, went over to his defensive pushed back five yards for a Coordinator Craig Rendall delay of game, PHS took an 8-6 and said, "Nice job. The lead when Young connected defense won it today."

In addition to the sterling job by the defense, especially in the second half, Cirullo noted, "Haggerty had the game I always thought he would have. They couldn't stop him. God, is he strong, passed 14 yards to O'Gorman for a first down and then tossed a 31-yard scoring strike in 23 carries and two touchdowns. Derrick down plunges of one and three yards.

Haggerty is currently ninth in the county in rushing with 412 yards in 99 carries and five TDs. "He's one of the strongest tailbacks in the put together a 65-yard scoring county," insisted Cirullo. "It drive. It was all Haggerty, he had the right offensive line Brushing aside four penalties.

PHS DEFENSE STOPS LAWRENCE: Typical of the Princeton High defense that PHS coach Bill Cirullo said, "won the second half for us." is this swarming tackle of Cardinal back Steve Crum after a short gain in the final period. Princeton's Gavin Hulsman (19) and Freddie Young (17) are coming up to assist. PHS won, 20-6, for its second win in a row.

in front of him, he could be the best."

Haggerty carried on eight of the drive's 11 plays for 57 yards, capping his effort with a three-yard TD run with 25 seconds left in the half.

Said Cirullo later, "I was disturbed by their early TD but it woke us up. Coming back to score 20 points feels great."

"We knew they were strapped without Radice (starting quarterback Peter Radice did not play because of an injury) and it enabled us to zero in on their running game."

In the third period, Lawrence had a first and goal from the four but Frantz Massenet stopped one thrust. Twice, Cardinal quarterback Jeff King tried rollouts on third and fourth downs and twice he was stopped for losses, first by Dominic Tracey and Jason Petrone and again by Haggerty and Hulsman.

In the final period, Lawrence had a second and goal from the three but was unable to score. On fourth down with 2:50 left to play, tailback Edward Sweeney ran straight ahead and was stopped cold by a straight up tackle by Haggerty, playing nose guard for the first time.

"It feels wonderful," Cirullo after the game. "It was a very rewarding victory for us. We met a solid football team that had beaten our opponents."

Cirullo cited co-captain Chris McCray for a fine performance at offensive

HUN VS. FARRAGUT In Football Finale. "We're trying to end with a win to carry us over to next year. To build on that."

After a 2-1 start, the season for first-year Hun football coach Bill Quirk has turned sour on the heels of four straight losses, so it is no surprise that Quirk hopes his 25 Raiders can end the season with a win. Standing in the way is Admiral Farragut which Hun will oppose Saturday at 2 in Toms River for its final game of the season.

Farragut, reports Quirk, has had an up and down season and like Hun is 0-2 in league play. But the Future Admirals are capable of the big game as indicated by their win over Womington Seminary which tied Blair Academy. Blair and Peddie, both 2-0 in league play, will clash for the title this weekend.

Last week, Hun was shut out by Pingry, 19-0. In winning its fifth against one loss and one tie, Pingry held Hun to 65 yards rushing and 12 in the air and sacked Hun quarterback Barry Landis and Robert Salasko a total of five times.

In spite of all this, Hun was still in the game with five minutes left to play, trailing 7-0. The Raiders then took themselves out of the game with mistakes. One came when Hun fumbled a Big Blue punt and Pingry recovered, driving 48 yards in 12 plays to go up by two TDs. Another came with 5:38 left to play when Pingry's Joe Colonna intercepted a Landis pass on

The Hun 20 and dashed into the end zone.

"To be honest, we hurt ourselves," said Quirk. "We gave them every opportunity they had. Every time we'd get some momentum going we'd make a defensive mistake. The game was a lot closer than the score indicates."

Another Hun mistake led to Pingry's first score. Faced with a fourth and 17 on its own 37, Pingry faked a punt and attempted to pass. The pass was incomplete but a Hun defensive back was whistled for interference and Pingry wound up with the ball on the Hun 24.

For its part, Hun missed on field goal attempts of 32 and 35 yards and was stopped three times inside the Pingry 30.

"It doesn't look like that much in the stats but we were able to move the ball," insisted Quirk. He cited the offensive play of fullback Jose Luque and the defensive efforts of Landis at halfback, Todd Lipani at strong safety and Brint Dietrich and Seth Wheaton at linebacker.

for the PHS girls soccer team ended like most of the 17 that had gone before — with a loss. PHS ended with a 4-3 setback to West Windsor for a 3-12-3 record. "I'd say we lost 70 percent of our games by one goal," observed PHS coach Ed Becham.

In the finale with West Windsor, PHS goalie Laura Nathan, who had seven saves, scored her fourth goal of the season on a penalty kick and Boogie Lockwood and Susan Huffaker scored single goals in the second and third periods. The Pirates (10-9) scored all of their goals in the first half.

Help in future years will come from a soccer program at the middle school.

"If the numbers are up, we'll be better and be able to play with more intensity," predicted Becham. Sixty to 65 minutes will be better than the 80 they had to give this year."

PHS IS ELIMINATED
From State Hockey Tournament. Princeton High's first bid in the NJSIAA Group 3 Central Jersey state lacrosse tournament — up a level this year — was not a successful one. The fifth-seeded Little Tigers were defeated, 2-1, by fourth-seeded Ocean Township in Oakhurst.

Ocean Township (14-2) got both its goals from senior inner Susan Pavlic, who scored the game's first goal with five seconds left in the first half when she converted a misdirected pass from Carrie Fox that caught the PHS defense leaning the wrong way.

Ocean increased its lead to 2-0 when Pavlic scored again 11:40 into the second half on a breakaway, after taking a pass from Andrea Olsen. Princeton tallied its lone goal with 1:52 left to play when junior Susan Lofgren beat the Spartan's goalie Donna DeNoble on an unassisted shot.

PHS outshot the victors, 11-10. DeNoble had six saves, Caylin Tobin two for the Little Tigers.

"We just weren't playing our game," said PHS captain Pam Jennings, returning after a four-game absence. "I don't know if it was the long bus ride down or if we lost our edge because the game had been postponed a day (rain) but we certainly didn't pay Princeton hockey."

PHS has one regular season game left, a meeting this Wednesday with West Windsor in West Windsor. It is a big game.

If the 13-4-1 Little Tigers win, they will share the Colonial Valley Conference crown with Hopewell Valley, a team they upset a week ago. A loss would give the CVC title to the Bulldogs.

"I think we are all going to be psyched up for this one," said Jennings.

PYS CLINCHES TITLE
In Midjet Football. Led by Darius Young, Princeton Youth Sports clinched the Princeton Midjet Football League championship last week by blanking the Lions Club, 20-0.

Young scored all three of his team's touchdowns on runs of 70, 25 and 15 yards. He also scored an extra point and O'Donoghue who was sidelined in mid-season with torn ligaments and tendons. "We had to replace her with a couple of sophomores," said Becham.

Becham's core of talented sophomores — Hillary Jones, Lockwood, Fiona Little, Jennie Howarth and Huffaker — now have two years experience. "But they need some help; they found out they can't do it themselves," added Becham.

Help in future years will come from a soccer program at the middle school.

PHS LOSES CVC TITLE
In Tennis to West Windsor. Defending Colonial Valley Conference champion West Windsor repeated as league champions last week when the Pirates nipped Princeton High School, 3-2. Both teams had entered the showdown battle with 8-0 league records.

The Little Tigers ended with a fine overall 18-3 record. But PHS coach Bill Humes said that he would gladly trade a couple of those wins for a win over West Windsor and the CVC crown.

The key match, Humes felt, was the second doubles where Cindy Bailey and Ariela Rosenbloom lost the first set to Wendy Groves and Karen Westergaard, 2-6, but came back to take a 3-1 lead in the second set. They couldn't hold it, however, and WW came on to win the set and the match, 6-2, 6-4.

Another key match was the third singles where West Windsor's Carmen Hsu defeated Mia Cahill, 6-2, 7-5. Cahill, after losing to Hsu in a match early in the season that did not count in the league standings, had defeated Hsu in the Mercer County tournament which PHS won. Last week, Cahill had a 5-1 lead in the second set against Hsu but lost the next six games in a row.

Princeton's two points came in the first singles and first doubles. Irene Usiskin capped off a fine year for PHS by defeating Dolly Luch, 7-5, 6-0, in their singles match and Eleanor Gorman and Debbie Rosenfeld stopped Nancy McManis and Mishla Ami easily, 6-1, 6-1, in the first doubles.

"We just weren't playing our game," said PHS captain Pam Jennings, returning after a four-game absence. "I don't know if it was the long bus ride down or if we lost our edge because the game had been postponed a day (rain) but we certainly didn't pay Princeton hockey."

The game was close in the early going as Barry Phox ran well and Jimmy Scott connected on some passes to Scott Cooke for the Lions. However, the strong defensive play by PYS led by Jay Jackson, Brian Simpson and Chris Hunt was just too much for the Lions to overcome.

PYS will end its season Saturday at 9:30 when it opposes First National Bank at Grover Park. The Lions finished their season with a 2-2 record.

Princeton's Gail Ellis lost the second singles, 4-6, 1-6, to Louise Martin of West Windsor.

Although Humes readily acknowledges that Princeton High's past dominance in the sport in the area is over, he noted that the Little Tigers will be strong again next year. Princeton loses only Cahill from its starting lineup and has a host of talented players waiting to step in. "We should be able to fill that one spot pretty easily," says Humes.

Roberts on the Run: Princeton Day freshman Todd Roberts (31), who will see much more action in the next three years, got into Friday's game against Morristown-Beard in the fourth quarter, and picked up 36 yards in four carries. He also completed one pass for 18 yards.

Every year the Princeton Day football schedule reflects various changes, with one exception — the Panthers always end their season against Morristown-Beard. It's proven to be a smart move.

Last Friday the Blue and White ended an otherwise mediocre year on a high note, thrashing the visitors, 35-0. PDS has defeated this winless north Jersey team every time but once the last several years. It's a great way to end a 2-4-2 season, and send everybody home happy.

And next fall there might be plenty more to be happy about, judging from the list of returning starters. The Panthers should be able to turn some of those close losses and ties into victories.

Coach Jim Walker will lose the services of his most valuable player, Peter Ross, the team's most productive runner on offense, and leading tackler on defense. Ross, who transferred from Montgomery High (which does not play football) in ninth grade, had a fine career for the Blue and White. He'll be missed, as will a pair of two-way tackles, Brian Luscombe, the team's biggest player at 275 lbs., and Dave Stifel. But a host of others return.

Junior running backs David Haynes and Jon McConaughy will be back, as well as quarterback Bill Noonan. The line has been staffed mainly by underclassmen, including juniors Charlie Jacques, Erik Hovanec, Jason Quick and Eric Bylin, and sophomores Bob Colso and Karl Chiang. Two other sophomores, defensive end Tim Howard and cornerback Greg Heins, plus two freshmen Scott Miller and Tim Jacques, also saw plenty of action.

Another freshman, Todd Roberts, brother of Scott Roberts, who could not play this fall, will be ready to contribute also. He picked up 36 yards in four carries, and completed one pass for 18 yards against Morristown-Beard. If things go well next year, the Panthers might not have to wait until their final game to capture some decisive victories.

And this one was certainly decisive, as the Panthers almost equalled the total number of points (38) they had scored in all seven previous games. The first period was scoreless, but early in the second junior Rich DiBianco tallied on a 26-yard reverse to give PDS its first touchdown. Marty Scasserra hit on his first of five successful conversions to make it 7-0. Before the half ended, Haynes scored on a three-yard run.

The third period belonged to McConaughy, who scored twice, the first from five yards out, the second from 24. Haynes wrapped up the scoring in the fourth quarter with an 18-yard punt around left end. He led the Panthers in rushing for the day with 122 yards in 17 carries. McConaughy had 104 in 11 tries, and Ross 94 in the same number of attempts. DiBianco carried four times for 59 yards.

The PDS defense didn't allow the visitors anywhere near the end zone, limiting them to less than 100 yards on the ground. Three MB backs attempted a total of nine passes; four fell incomplete and five were intercepted by the Panthers. Heins and McConaughy picked off two apiece and Ross had one.

"The Pingry game brought everything together for us," commented Walker. "That's when the players realized it takes everybody to win a game, not just a few people. It really gave us confidence going into the Morristown-Beard game."

Friday was unseasonably cold for early November, but the PDS performance warmed the hearts of all its supporters.

ending. This longest season for Princeton High coach Becky Mackey and the PHS boys soccer team ended in darkness Thursday when visiting West Windsor and the Blue and White battled to a 0-0 tie. When the game ended at 5:05 it was too dark to play an overtime.

The scoreless tie, against a team that had won ten games and was in the state tournament, seemed to underline the frustration of the Little Tigers. In 18 previous games the best PHS could do was gain four ties — 1-1 against Lawrence in its opening game of the season, 2-2 against Hun School, 1-1 against McCorristin and 1-1 against Ewing. The final tally was 0-14-5.

Against Trenton, PHS was behind 4-0 at the half, losing 5-0, as goalie John Lysaker had 15 saves. Against West Windsor, "we played hard and well," commented Mackey, but once again PHS could not put the ball in the net. It marked the eleventh time this season the Little Tigers failed to score, including its last six games in a row.

What vital ingredient was missing? "We were all right in the midfield," commented Mackey, "but on a skill level"

As for next year, Mackey reported that she intends to return as coach and announced that center halfback Tom Poltyn and fullback and stopper back Mike Petrone have been elected co-captains of the 1984 squad.

Starters lost through graduation include Lysaker and sweeper Peter Gager, both of whom were outstanding performers all season. Bolster and fullback Tony Curtis.

2 Big Games Ahead for PDS

With a 10-1 rout of Montclair Monday, highlighted by Don Cogsville's five goals, the Princeton Day soccer team has just two games remaining this season, but what big ones they are.

This Wednesday evening at 7:30, at Mercer County Park, the Panthers, 20-0-1, will have a re-match against Lawrenceville in the finals of the County Tournament, the first time two prep schools have faced each other in the championship round. In a regular season contest last month, PDS defeated the Larries for the first ever on a pair of last period goals by Cogsville and Sal Fier.

Monday's victory over Montclair came in the semi-finals of the Prep "B" tournament, and will give the Blue and White a chance to win that by beating Pennington a second time. The two schools will meet Monday at 2:45 at Lawrenceville.

Canoe Strokes and Water Exercise.

"Supporting Each Other in a Nuclear World," an activity of The Day Before Project, is a special potluck supper-workshop planned for Friday, November 18. This program is co-sponsored by the Princeton YWCA, the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, The Unitarian Church and the Holistic Health Association.

On Wednesday, December 14, the YWCA and the Writers Center will present "An Evening of Poetry Readings." During the holiday vacation, grade school children will be able to participate in a special mini-activities program.

Registration for mini-session programs will take place between November 14 and 19. For details about registration or classes, contact the YWCA at 924-5571.

With Word Processor? "The Word Processor and the Writer" is the topic of a discussion panel sponsored by the Friends of Princeton High School Library, to be given next Wednesday, November 16, at 7:30 at the high school. The evening is free, and the public is invited.

Randall Rothenberg, political writer who did his last book on an Osborn I; Flora Davis, health columnist for Mademoiselle and Jamie McKenzie, assistant superintendent of Princeton's schools, will speak.

At 8:40, there will be a "hands-on" demonstration for as many in the audience as the school's computer center will hold. An exhibit of word processors will be shown, courtesy of the Clancy Paul Computer Center.

AUTHORS' PARTY At U-Store. The Princeton University Store will hold an Authors' Party on Thursday, November 17, from 7 to 8:30. Part of the store's semi-annual Book Festival, the Authors' Party will provide an opportunity for the public to talk informally with some area authors, and to have books autographed.

Guests of honor will be Nathaniel Burt, author of "Jackson Hole Journal," a personal memoir of life in an extraordinary place; Elizabeth Wenning Davidson, whose book, "The Christmas Mouse," the story of the first singing of "Silent Night," is being re-issued; Trentonian columnist Bill Dwyer, author of "The Day Is Ours! Nov. 1776-Jan. 1777, an inside view of the battles of Trenton and Princeton;

Also, Reader's Digest columnist Peter Funk, author of "High Spirits," the story of a modern American family in search of an old-fashioned dream; Charles Coulston Gillispie, author of a volume on ballooning, "The Montgolfier Brothers and the Invention of Aviation;" and novelist Deena Linett, "On Common Ground," and W. M. Speckman, "On Common Ground." "On Common Ground" is Ms. Linett's first novel; Mr. Speckman is an established writer perhaps best known for his sensuous book, "An Armful of Warm Girl."

The Authors' Party is a new feature of the store's semi-annual Book Festival. Refreshments will be served.

Children's Day Set. The store will hold its November Children's Day on Saturday, November 19.

Appearing will be Buddy the Clown and Matt the Juggler. There will be two hour-long shows; the first beginning at 1 and the second at 2. In addition to the performers, there will be free balloons, free cookies and cider and door prizes.

There is no admission charge.

Nelson van den Blink To Retire from Council At End of This Year

A 430-mile round trip from home to job is just too much, so Nelson van den Blink announced this week that she is resigning from Borough Council December 31. She has one year remaining in her third three-year term.

Already several Democrats have stepped forward to announce their interest. Because Mrs. van den Blink is a Democrat, it is the Democrats who will present the names from which Council will choose. The Democratic County Committee, headed by Gertrude Dubrovsky, is expected to submit three names. The Princeton Community Democratic Organization will probably have a few suggestions of its own.

Irv Urken, John Huntoon and Diana Radcliffe have all been mentioned, and both Mr. Urken and Mr. Huntoon have said they would like to be considered.

For the past four years, Mrs. van den Blink has been on the board of directors of The Hilliard Corporation of Elmira, New York, and in April, she was made chairman of the board.

"I didn't realize there would be such involvement," she said this week. "If the company were in the same area as Princeton, there would be no problem. But the five-hour drive of 215 miles — that was the key."

The Hilliard Corporation makes industrial clutches for heavy machinery and also oil reclaimers and filters that keep machinery running smoothly. The firm has 150 employees in office and factory, and is about 75 years old.

Mrs. van den Blink's father, Edward A. Mooers, joined the firm in 1928 and is still, at 86, active in its affairs.

"It is basically a family company, and I'm taking on a responsibility for a family," Mrs. van den Blink explained. "I grew up with it: the factory was always another person at the dinner table."

"I'd become more and more interested, since joining the board four years ago," she continued, "but I did not foresee taking this central role. I'd hoped to finish my term on

Intruder Shot to Death by Borough Police After Breaking into Cleveland Lane Home

An intruder in a Cleveland Lane home was shotgunned to death Sunday afternoon by police when it bolted from a rear kitchen door. The intruder was a young buck deer.

Mrs. Marjorie Foulke of 64 Cleveland Lane, who was alone in the house, told police that she had panicked when she heard a tremendous crash and the sound of glass breaking. Frightened, she ran from the house.

The breaking glass triggered an alarm at police headquarters at 3:15 p.m. and Det. William Clark responded. He was met by Mrs. Foulke who told him what she had heard. In checking the house, the officer discovered a small buck had jumped through a window and landed in the kitchen. Seriously cut, the buck was still on his feet walking about.

After Sgt. Peter Hanley and Ptl. Donald Dawson arrived, the doors of the house were closed to confine the deer, called a "button buck" because it didn't have antlers, to the kitchen. Armed with a shotgun, Det. Clark positioned himself in the rear yard.

After police had determined there were no other persons in the immediate area, the buck was chased from the kitchen through the pantry out of the house where he was shot by Det. Clark.

"I was scared he would go on a rampage in the house," Mrs. Foulke said. "It was a complete and utter nightmare. The deer had cut himself badly and there was blood everywhere."

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the Fish & Game agency was notified, the deer picked up by the public works department and the carcass disposed of.

The large number of deer has always been a problem in Princeton, especially in rural areas of the Township. Hunting is banned except for

Differing Philosophies and Financial Woes May Force Split Between YM and YWCA

What happens when two organizations share a facility but one can no longer pay half the operating costs?

Does that one pull out, leaving the other to be the sole occupant and user, as well as the sole bearer of the full cost? Or can a shift in space and cost allocation be negotiated, resulting in curtailed use and less expense for the one and greater responsibility and opportunity for the other?

These are the questions at the bottom line of months of discussions, meetings and negotiations centering on the YMCA, the YWCA and the building they share on Paul Robeson Place. The talks have involved not only board members of the two associations but also, in the past two weeks, officials of the United Way, which provides substantial funding for both organizations.

Two factors at the heart of the issue are the building itself and the widely differing philosophies and

way of operating of the two associations.

Designed as a joint YM-YWCA facility and erected in 1954 at a cost of $1 million, much of it raised from the community, the building was subsequently enlarged for another $1 million. The 1954 agreement between the two associations stipulates that the costs of running the building will be shared on a 50-50 basis, although how the space is to be used is not specified.

Responsibility for the building rests with the Joint Management Trustees, three from the YM and three from the YW. The trustees draw up a budget for what it will cost in heat, light, water and maintenance to keep the building open for a year.

The budget must then be approved — sometimes with modifications — by the two associations and goes into effect for a January 1 to December 31 fiscal year.

PCH Is Denied Extension For Elderly Housing Funds, But Can Apply Once More

Federal housing authorities have, in effect, wiped out Princeton Community Housing's present application to build 101 units of housing for middle-income elderly.

But officials of the non-profit corporation said this week that they will apply again after January 1 — using the same Elm Road site — and believe they have "a good chance" to win approval.

Meanwhile, Borough Council will hear next Monday the second part of the appeal filed by opponents of the Elm Road project. The hearing will begin at 7:30 in Borough Hall.

PCH officials — president Harriet Bryan, Theodore Vial, Leslie Vivian and Golda Gottlieb, with architect Jeremiah Ford and consultant Michael McCarthy — met in Washington October 21 with an aide to Phillip Abrams, acting assistant director of the Federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) office.

HUD had already granted PCH conditional approval, had reserved money for the project and given PCH time to complete work toward the final application. That completion deadline was September 30. PCH, faced with delays caused by the two garage referendums and the need to start all over again with a new site, had asked for an extension of that working time.

Mr. Abrams' office, explaining its refusal, said it could extend only if delays had been caused by HUD itself, or if litigation had been involved.

When PCH officials protested that, in their view, the two garage referendums constituted "litigation," Mr. Abrams said they were regarded as "peripheral."

PCH had the support of both New Jersey Senators — Republican Nicholas Brady and Democrat Bill Bradley; Congresswoman Millicent Fenwick, who has been Princeton's representative, and Congressman Matthew Rinaldo, who is now Princeton's representative. All sent letters to Mr. Abrams, but apparently without effect.

"We are distressed about the delay," Mrs. Bryan said, announcing the refusal, "but we've been invited to apply again, using the Elm Road site."
